SAY WOMAN SOUGHT DEATH OF HUSBAND

Relatives of Mrs. Barbara Dodd Tell Why She Cut Them Off and Left Money to Merer.

Declaring that the reason that the late Mrs. Barbara Dodd, a wealthy Atlanta woman who died recently had cut them off and bequeathed $100,000 of her estate to Mercer university and the remainder to charity, was because certain of them had refused her proposition to kill Dr. J. H. Garner, her divorced husband, or maim him, by throwing oil of vitriol in his face, the six relatives, who claim the right to inherit the estate of some $200,000, yesterday filed an appeal to the ruling of the ordinary and obtained the right to carry the case to the superior court.

In a recent hearing, Judge John R. Wilkinson, ordinary of Fulton, upheld the will of which Charles E. Currier represented by Attorney C. P. Goree, is the executor, and the relatives now seek to have the higher court reverse his ruling.

Mrs. Dodd was the widow of the late Philip Dodd, a wealthy and respected merchant of Atlanta. He died some eight or nine years ago, and a few years afterward his widow, a woman of over 60 years, married Dr. Garner.

He Asked Separation.

The couple were unhappy, and Dr Garner soon left for North Dakota. There he filed a petition for separation, in which he alleged that the aged woman had deceived him into believing that her abundance of hair was the real article, and that she had also promised to settle upon him the sum of $100,000 immediately after the ceremony.

Dr. Garner further asserted that he soon discovered that his wife wore false hair and that she had no intention of carrying out the financial settlement. The woman sent an Atlanta attorney to Dakota to answer the divorce libel, and filed a cross bill. She succeeded in getting a divorce and had the name she had previously borne restored.

The petitioning relatives assert that this affair so bore upon her that she was overcome by an insane delusion and sought to have certain of them kill Dr. Garner, or at least maim him for life with the burning acid.

Further they claim that when they refused with horror to comply with the "insane request that she became imbued with the hallucination that they were not of her blood or family, nor related to her, and not entitled to her affection or to be treated by her as kinsmen."

Her Mind Unbalanced.

This, asserts the amendment, was her reason for deeding her fortune to charity and leaving them only a few paltry dollars, as it this, they claim, is sufficient proof to show that at the time of the making of the will the woman's mind was unbalanced and she was not in a condition to dispose of her property.

The relatives who are behind the litigation and who are represented by Attorneys King & Spalding and Underwood Rosser & Brandon are Mrs. Barbara E. Dibbie, Mrs. Fannie T. Aokerman and George, Oscar G., Malcolm and Henry E. Dibble.

As the will stands at present and as upheld by Judge Wilkinson, the bequest to Mercer will be used to create a memorial to Dr. Nathan Scott Dodd, and oth r large sums will go to various charities in and around Atlanta. The heirs are left practically nothing, the largest single bequest being a $5,000 gift to one of the brothers, who is blind.

GAVE HIS WIFE DOSE OF IODINE BY MISTAKE

Dublin, Ga., June 18.—(Special.)—Mrs. W. B. Smith, of this city, is gradually recovering from accidental poisoning caused by taking a dose of iodine, thinking it was capudine. The dose was prepared by her husband, who, not being familiar with the two bottles that were sitting tokether on the dresser in Mrs. Smith's room, got hold of the bottle of iodine by mistake.

He measured out a dose of two easpoonfuls, and gavel t to Mrs. Smith, who swallowed it before she stopped to ask him why it tasted so peculiar. When she did mention it he investigated and found that he had given her iodine instead of capudine. Physicians were immediately summoned and, after considerable hard work, she was pronounced out of danger. She is gradually recovering from the dose, and although her throat was badly burned, will recover in due time.

AWAKENED BY WOMAN, HE SHOOTS HER DEAD

Bowie, La., June 18.—Awakening suddenly from a sleep in the early morning, an entrance into his room, Abraham Blanchard today short and killed Mrs. W. L. Walters, proprietress of a local hotel, where Blanchard was a guest. Realizing what he had done, he turned the weapon upon himself, inflicting a wound which will probably prove fatal.

Thinking the room unoccupied, Mrs. Walters went in to leave some linen. Startled and half awake, Blanchard took his revolver from under his pillow and fired a bullet through the woman's body, killing her instantly. Fully aroused by the discharge of the weapon, he attempted to kill himself after realizing the tragedy he had unintentionally enacted.

HUNTING DOWN A RAT, STOLEN CASH IS FOUND

London, June 18.—An unexpected sequel to the recent burglary in the Berkeley hotel in Piccadilly is the arrest of the night porter, Arthur James, charged with being concerned in stealing from the hotel safe $35,000 and attempting to murder Gowers, the other night porter. Movements of a big rat in the hotel dining room a few nights ago led to James' arrest.

Employees of the hotel in hunting down the rat found its hole under the radiator and through it saw a gleam of gold. The floor was taken up and there was found more than half of the booty. It is charged that James, who was bound and gagged near the safe on the night of the burglary, acted in conjunction with a continental gang of thieves.

BARRETT TO BE NAMED BY PRESIDENT WILSON

Expected That Georgian Will Be Member of New Industrial Commission.

By John Corrigan, Jr.

Washington, June 18.—(Special.)—It is expected that Charles S. Barrett, president of the Farmers' union, will be nominated by President Wilson as a member of the new industrial commission authorized under a bill passed at the last session of congress. He was selected by President Taft on the list that failed of confirmation.

Senator Bacon strongly urged Mr. Barrett to the president today when the latter visited the capitol to discuss appointments with members of congress.

President Wilson discussed the commission with several senators.

Of the nine commissioners it is known that Mr. Barrett and Frank P. Walsh, of Kansas City, Mo., and Mrs. J. Borden Harriman, of New York, will represent the non-partisan side of the commission; Fred R. Delano, of Illinois, and F. Thurston Ballard, of Kentucky, will represent the employers, and John S. Lennon, of Illinois, will represent employees.

The names of the three other commissioners, two of whom are to represent labor, and the third, employees, were not made known. It is expected that all will be sent to the senate Saturday.

The commission is to investigate disputes between labor and capital.

On his trip to the capitol today President Wilson did not get away as inconspicuously as on previous occasions.

A large crowd had gathered to hear a band concert on the east front of the capitol, and when the president arrived there were cheers and applause reminiscent of campaign days.

The president rose in his automobile and waived his hat to the crowd. As he went through the corridor just in front of the senate chamber members of the upper house caught a glimpse of him. It was the first time the president had visited the capitol when the senate was actually in session.

Later the sergeant-at-arms, scouring corridors for senators to make up a quorum, found a delegate to enter the president's room where he thought a group of senators had congregated. Senator Bacon, the only one who happened in, quickly ended his conference quickly and returned to the senate chamber.

The president had on his list twenty senators, republicans as well as democrats, and saw them all within an hour. He emerged from about appointments of all kinds in their home states. It had been thought that he would take occasion then about appointments of all kinds in their home states. It had been thought that he would take occasion then about appointments of all kinds in their home states. It had been thought that he would take occasion then nard and Palmer. He declared the committee had no right to go into "private correspondence" dated before the present session of congress. After a long executive session the committee decided that the letters bore directly upon the attempts of Oxnard and Palmer to influence legislation and they were at once made public.

Melville Stone to Appear.

The committee tonight granted the request of Melville E. Stone, of New York, general manager of the Associated Press, who asked to be allowed to testify tomorrow regarding claims made in some of the Hamlin letters, produced yesterday, as to the publicity of the beet sugar interests hoped to secure through the Associated Press.

The free sugar forces, which fought Oxnard, Palmer, Hamlin and other anti-free sugar men for many years, got their first innings when Lowry took the stand. He testified that he was general sales agent of the Federal Sugar Refining company; that his salary was $10,000 a year, and that commissions brought his total earnings close up to $17,000 per annum.

He said he really was employed by Smith & Shipper, of New York, a firm which acts as agents for the refining company. He thought that the refiners paid $5,000 of his salary and the agents the remainder.

Senator Cummins, who conducted his cross-examination, brought out that Lowry is connected with the "committee of nineteen grocers," which has figured largely in the fight for free sugar, or a reduction in duty on that article.

"I have never received any money for any tariff work at all," said Lowry.

The witness said he couldn't remember whether he went into the sugar fight at the suggestion of C. A. Spreckels, president of the refining company, or whether he suggested that Spreckels go into the fight. He said the refiners were interested in free sugar, or reduced duties, because it meant an increased consumption or refined sugar. After many questions by Senator Cummins, he added that refiners would get more business if the duty was removed and beet sugar producers and refining in Cuba country curtailed.

That Alleged Bogus Order.

Through Harry A. Austin, clerk to Palmer, and Benjamin S. Platt, enrolling clerk of the senate, the committee endeavored to find out who was responsible for what it believes was a bogus order of the senate incorporated in a much-discussed letter. Platt, who has been connected with the senate for twenty-six or twenty-seven years, said he had never seen the order. He said Palmer sent special copies of the pamphlet to many prominent men in Germany, including Emperor William.

Austin testified that "sugar at a glance" had cost the United States beet industry $24,420.20, of which $1,942.50 had gone to the government printing office. In the examination of Palmer several days ago, Senator Reed brought out that Palmer had saved the beet men by sending the pamphlet out under Senator Lodge's frank amounted to about $24,000.

The character of the publicity beet sugar men sought was outlined in one of the unsigned letters in the Hamlin correspondence addressed to Sidney Ballou, an active figure in the Hawaiian sugar organization. It said the beet sugar men had made a contract with the Press Service company at $2,500 a month for publicity.

"They guarantee the publication of 50,000 lines a month of matter pertaining to the sugar industry," the letter added.

Another unsigned letter dated May 2, 1913, addressed to Sidney Ballou said:

"I believe that our greatest opportunity for publicity will arise in connection with the national campaign. The republican party will of necessity be compelled to make the tariff an issue and the fight will probably center around sugar.

"We are in touch with those who are preparing the republican campaign book and the sugar question will be handled subject to our approval. In fact the matter is being furnished by us. As soon as the democrats come over it is our purpose to get in touch with the campaign managers with a view to having 'Chief' Sparks fully posted upon the sugar question.

"In fact, I am personally of the opinion that if we could only succeed in put a few good men on the campaign committee who will give particular attention to sugar, I believe that more people are to be reached in this way than in any other.

"You asked me particularly with reference to Dr. Wiley. As you were advised the doctor made us a proposition for lectures which was accepted. When he got into harness, however, he found that he had undertaken more than he could perform and asked to be released. We did not deem it wise to insist, as we do not think desirable to have Dr. Wiley's friendship and cooperation. He had agreed, however, to deliver a few lectures. By looking carefully after the publicity given these lectures we believe we can secure some good results.

"Generally speaking, we expect to avail ourselves of any avenue of publicity where the results promised seem to justify the expenditure."

Another letter objected to by Senator Yerkes was unsigned, addressed to Henry T. Oxnard and dated at Chicago in April, 1907. It said in part:

"Major Gove is showing anxiety about either buying or starting a paper as well as securing the columns of an influential eastern daily and a large line of 'patent insides.'

"Mr. Collings is very anxious about the Ta't situation and hopes that there will be some way to make it known that there will be great doubt about his ability to carry such states as California, Idaho, Utah, Colorado and that if we can't head him off we might be able to get a promise relative to the sugar and tobacco industries."

A letter from Oxnard to Palmer August 1, 1907, in part said:

"Regarding the vacancies on the Philippine committee, it is true that nothing can be done until next winter, but I spoke to Foster and Newlands and told me he was O. K. and asked them to apply for the vacancies made by the Tennessee and Idaho senators. They told me they would and there the matter stands. I understood from Teller that he did not want the position owing to his health and the necessity of fighting it without him, but after that I spoke to Newlands."

Another letter from Oxnard to Palmer:

"I note what you say about Teller. I am glad he is willing to go on the committee, but I see no harm in having Newlands try for it, too. I am committed to him already.

"I wish Gove would not 'butt in' without consulting me. He is too apt to do that. I am going to call him down sharply at the first opportunity. If is very bad management and I won't have it.

"I saw Foster's political manager in Washington yesterday and impressed on him the importance of Foster's getting Carmack's place."

Senate Committee Fixed.

An unsigned letter to Oxnard, dated Chicago, July 29, 1907, was in part as follows:

"Major Gove wrote to me some time since in regard to the formation of the senate Philippine committee in the sixtieth congress and I wrote him that I thought Teller first last and later Gove writes that Teller will take it himself, rather than to have it in uncertain hands any friendly democrats see during the winter will count."

A letter August 27, 1907, from Oxnard to Palmer said:

"I am of the opinion that you had better not even try to get any reasonable amendment regarding Cuba, and that might start our enemies going. Of course we want a strong anti-Philippine resolution put through. I read carefully The Beet Gazette. My judgment is that you had better not allow Rogerous to get your name too often in print, for I think it will begin to command on it. It seems to me that you can do better work for the cause by not being thought connected with the paper in any way."

July 29, 1907, Oxnard wrote from New York to Palmer:

"I prefer that you leave the Cuban question alone for the present. If we begin talking it will start them raising money and talking back.

"Regarding the trust I would neither attack nor defend them. We don't want a fight with them if we can help it."

Oxnard wrote to Palmer on July 1, 1908:

"After going over the situation with our friends here most carefully it was deemed best that I should not put in my appearance at the Denver convention and feel you will be much better if you also stayed away. It is all right for Morry and Gove to be there, but I think that action on the senate do no good and might do some harm with our republican friends at Washington next winter."

Made Much Uncle Joe.

Another written from Chicago October 7, 1907, to Oxnard said:

"Speaker Cannon was with Uncle Joe for four hours and feels that he accomplished something, though he did not feel at liberty to tell me much in detail. From here he went to Cincinnati at Foraker's request to meet him. He is leaving no stone unturned in his efforts to get real republicanists put on to the committee on ways and means to fill the five vacancies.

"He is certain that Fordney for one will be appointed, but did not mention the others. He said that he felt that we have as many business and manufacturing concerns as possible write to the speaker at Danville. . . . The next two months ought to pile up quite a lot of letters to at least make an impression on the speaker.

"Of course I do not calculate that we will be able to control that committee in case they bring in a Philippine tariff reduction bill, but the more strength we have in the house and more strength we develop there the stronger we will, of course, be in the senate."

To Palmer, October 15, 1907, Oxnard wrote from Upperville, Va.:

"I had been trying to find out what chance we had on ways and means and am glad to get the information you give on that line. Will bring all republicans I can on Cannon. His political manager, Congressman Littauer, of New York, is a strong personal friend of mine and this summer at Saratoga outlined to me his plan of campaign for Uncle Joe. I shall expect to bring strong pressure through Littauer."

He Saw Two Senators.

A letter to Oxnard, dated October 1, 1907, and apparently from Palmer, said in part:

"In Denver I saw both Senators Teller and Patterson. Patterson told me that Lodge admitted to him that the Philippine matter was not one of philanthropy and stated to him that we had these islands for the purpose of exploiting them with American capital and that we were going to do it.

"Teller told me that Aldrich told him that he and his crowd would stand by us and try to keep the bill in the committee, but that if it got on to the floor of the senate they would have to stay with their party and vote for the passage of the bill. Gove has talked with Teller and they will recommittee matters that he finally became willing to go on the Philippine committee thinking that now he is really anxious to do so. He will be by all odds the strongest man we can have."

Another Palmer letter added "that the Philippine matter probably would come up soon.

"My idea has always been," it continued, "to start the ball rolling on a general tariff reduction comes, when we could trade with the other fellows."

A letter from Oxnard to Palmer July 16, 1908, said in part:

"I spent a day with Mr. Thomas recently on his yacht and he seems to think we had better stand in with Taft if possible.

"A letter from Palmer attacked Taft for his stand on Philippine legislation; another said he had given some assurance to the sugar men, "but would give no pledges that they could rely on."

A letter from Palmer to Oxnard, July 5, 1908, in part:

"When Taft was nominated I sent him a congratulatory telegram and this morning received his thanks. On Sunday I drove with him, detailing my last interview with him and in close copy herewith. I hope that he will send me a verbal reply through some third party."

Bristow Hard to Handle.

Palmer wrote Hamlin August 8, 1912: "I have found Bristow a hard man to handle, for once he gets an idea into his head he does not seem to be willing to consider the various angles of the situation, rather is inclined to look straight through a telescope with big end toward him."

Another regarding Cuba, and appeared before the Hardwick committee at a New York hearing," Palmer added:

"Mr. Spreckels was having things all his own way over there and Mr. Oxnard wired me to come over. By going on the stand a few minutes I dropped a rock into the threshing machine that threw the belt and I am glad I went over."

Oxnard wrote from Washington, December 26, 1907, to Palmer, then in Chicago:

"I have seen Colonel Edwards and got him to agree with me that it is poor politics for Taft to push this measure this winter and he is going to try and bring him to that way of thinking. I also saw Loeb, who agreed with me that the whole subject had better be postponed and will talk with the president. While I have little hope of success, I shall keep at it on these lines."

Oxnard at Upperville, Va., received another letter from Chicago dated October 29, 1907. Here is part of it:

"Gove says that by virtue of your intimacy with Littauer and that you are keeping that matter in mind, for, of course, the ways and means committee it would save a lot of work and avoid a heap of danger.

"Gove says in the letter confirmed, that Colcock further informs him that if he succeeds he will need but three republicans on that committee to hold any matter up that may come."

Hamlin Makes Correction.

Colorado Springs, Colo., June 18.—Correcting a portion of the statement he made last night with relation to the correspondence produced before the senate Philippine committee in Washington, Clarence C. Hamlin, one of the owners of The Colorado Springs Gazette, said today that no effort had been made to obtain financial aid from the railroads for the publicity campaign in behalf of the beet sugar industry which he conducted.

"I merely suggested," said Hamlin, "to some of the persons connected with the sugar campaign that we request railroad officials whenever opportunity offered to set forth the advantages of the sugar industry by word and letter. There never was a request on railroad officials to contribute for the sugar publicity campaign."

NURSE CHLOROFORMED AND MONEY IS TAKEN

Miss E. O. Skelton Robbed at Red Cross Sanitarium Wednesday Morning.

Until a late hour last night detectives had not found the person or persons who chloroformed and robbed Miss E. O. Skelton at the Red Cross sanitarium, 88 Cooper street, early Wednesday morning, taking with them $143 in money and a solid gold watch and chain.

According to her own story, Miss Skelton, who is head nurse at the Red Cross sanitarium, retired to her room about 11 o'clock Tuesday night. Shortly after midnight she was awakened and, thinking that it was Miss Pauline Bogen, one of the nurses, called to her.

Instantly some one grappled her neck, preventing screaming. A chloroform rag was pressed upon her face and she knew nothing more until shortly after 6 o'clock Wednesday morning, when Miss Bogen entered her room, to awaken her.

The room was in great disorder, dresser drawers were pulled open and the contents strewn over the floor. The $143 in bills and a solid gold watch, given her by her father, Col. T. N. Skelton, of Covington, Ga., were missing.

The silver mesh bag which had contained the bills was left on the dresser, the burglars evidently not knowing its worth.

PHILATHEAS OF STATE CONVENING IN DUBLIN

After Interesting Session in Morning, Delegates Are Given Auto Ride.

Dublin, Ga., June 18.—(Special.)—The large number of delegates at the state Philathea convention enjoyed the first day's session here very much. The first session was taken up by organization and the consideration of several routine matters and several fine papers.

The annual address of the president, Miss Lena Bird, of Athens, was one of the interesting papers of the morning session, while others who read papers were Miss Ludie May Hooten, of College Park; Miss Madge Newbourne, of Athens, and Mrs. J. A. Ivey, of Dawson, who conducted the consecration service in the afternoon.

An automobile ride was tendered the visitors late in the afternoon, and at the night session, Dr. J. E. White, of Macon, made a splendid address.

The election of officers scheduled for this afternoon was postponed until Thursday.

HANDLING OF COTTON BEING CONSIDERED

All Exporting Interests Are Represented at the Birmingham Meeting.

Birmingham, Ala., June 18.—Looking to a reconciliation of differences now pertaining to the handling and shipping of the cotton crop of the near future, interests involved—bankers, cotton exporters, compress owners and cotton exporting interests, presiding.

The uniformity of the baling of cotton, the ties used, the sand, financing, on through billing and the stringent rules of steamship companies are questions under consideration. The marking of cotton bales will play an important part in the handling of the crop, it being contended that these markings must say whether cotton was baled wet or dry, loose or compactly, and other information must be stated.

The banking interests are concerned in the through billing, the guarantees to be given as to delivery intact, etc. In meeting is considered most important, and upward of fifty different interests are represented in this conference.

No conclusion was reached today, and the sessions will be continued tomorrow.

NEGRO BURGLAR HELD IN BOND OF $1,000

Herman Butler, the negro burglar who fought a pistol duel Saturday night with a Pinkerton detective in the Troy steam laundry, was bound over Wednesday morning in the sum of $1,000 bond.

Dave Williams, of 99 Pratt street, and Henry Brown, of Montgomery, Ala., the two negroes who, it is charged, have "skinned" a number of Atlanta merchants in the last two weeks, were bound over Tuesday afternoon in bonds of $6,000 and $5,000, respectively.

Twelve cases were against Williams and ten against Brown.

J. W. Burk, aged 24, a clerk, was arrested Wednesday morning by Patrolmen Lewis and Felder, accused of robbing George Willingham, a carpenter of Conyers, Ga. The latter was arrested on a charge of drunkenness.

The detective department has recovered a handsome watch, which was part of the several hundred dollars' worth of jewelry and valuables stolen Monday afternoon from the home of Mrs. L. C. Hazel, 117 Holderness street, West End. The watch was found in a pawn shop. A diamond ring, an amethyst ring, a coral stick pin, a string of gold beads, a gold extension bracelet, a gold chain and a cameo pin are still missing.

Motor Concern Fails.

Milwaukee, Wis., June 18.—Because demands of creditors were not met, the Milwaukee Motor company was forced into involuntary bankruptcy today. The capital stock of the company was given at $350,000 and liabilities at $280,000.

Atlantans in Washington.

PICKETT WOULD ROTATE JUDGES

Terrell Representative to Father Bill to Remove Courts From Home Influences.

A bill that will create a furore among the superior court judges of the state, if it meets with favor in the house, is to be introduced at this session of the legislature by Representative C. Pickett, of Terrell county.

The measure provides for nothing less than the rotation of judges in the circuits throughout the state so that most of the judges' time will be taken up in trying cases in counties outside of the circuits in which they were elected. Mr. Pickett would have the supreme court, at stated intervals, to make assignments of judges, the judges to hold the regular terms of court in the counties to which they are assigned. Provision is made for the payment by the state of the actual traveling and living expenses of the judges when away from home.

Under Mr. Pickett's bill, if it becomes a law, a judge from Camden county might be called upon to hold a term of court in Dade, and vice versa. In this way it is believed that judges will be removed from all political and personal influences that might bias their rulings.

While the measure is expected to meet with strong opposition from the judges themselves, it is said that a large number of practising lawyers favor it. While Mr. Pickett is not a lawyer himself, several members of the house who are lawyers have signified to him that they will favor the bill, and one will proably ask that his name be put upon it.

The law in New York state provides for a rotation of judges, somewhat similar to the system that Mr. Pickett hopes to have introduced here. One chief difference is, however, that the supreme court judges in New York corresponding to the judges of the superior court in Georgia, are elected by the people of the entire state, instead of by circuits, and they serve for much longer terms than superior court judges do in Georgia.

Would Remove Partisan Bias.

Discussing his reasons for introducing the bill, Mr. Pickett said recently:

"I know of men on the bench who would make splendid judges if they were taken out of the counties in which they are known. They are able lawyers and well equipped in every way to preside over courts and interpret the law, but they cannot free themselves from the political influences to which, in many cases, they owe their elevation to and continuance on the bench.

"It should not be so. Our judges should be removed as far as possible from political influences. No suspicion of partisan bias should taint the administration of justice. I believe it will be a long step in the right direction when we can have our judges holding courts in all the counties of the state in turn, and entirely out of the circle of home influences which might color the decisions even the fairest and most unpartisan judge."

REUBEN ARNOLD MAY AID FRANK'S DEFENSE IN BIG MURDER TRIAL

When questioned last night as to the truth of the rumor that he will be associated with the defense of Leo M. Frank, indicted for the Mary Phagan murder, Reuben R. Arnold, one of Atlanta's most prominent attorneys, refused to either affirm or deny the rumor.

"I am not associated with the defense yet," Mr. Arnold said. "I cannot make any statement at the present time in regard to this matter."

When questioned closely as to whether he would be engaged by the defense later on, Mr. Arnold made the same statement. Luther Z. Rosser, Frank's attorney, could make no statement, one way or the other, as to whether Mr. Arnold would be associated with him.

C. F. STROBERG HEADS RED MEN OF GEORGIA

Over Two Hundred Visitors Attend Convention of Great Council at Columbus.

Columbus, Ga., June 18.—(Special.)—A largely attended and very much enjoyed meeting of the Haymakers tonight closed the first day's session of the thirty-fourth annual session of the Great Council of Georgia, Independent Order of Red Men. The day was filled with doings, some business and a good deal of a social character. The meeting is being well attended, at least two hundred visitors being here the first day and attending the first session.

The business session was called to order in the Masonic temple this morning by Great Sachem Sam J. Bell, of Jefferson. Mayor L. H. Chappell, representative to the supreme council of Red Men, extended a very cordial invitation in behalf of the city. His address was followed by one by Hon. B. S. Miller, in behalf of the Red Men of Columbus. The response to these addresses was made by the great junior sagamore of the United States, T. H. Jeffries, of Atlanta.

Great Sachem Bell delivered his annual address, included his report for the year which closes with this meeting. The address showed the condition of the order to be satisfactory and progressing. The great chief of records, M. J. Daniel, of Griffin, made a very gratifying report especially interesting to Red Men and to Daughters of the Degree of Pocahontas. The report of the great keeper of wampum, George E. Johnson, of Atlanta, shows a balance in hand or more than three thousand dollars.

Augusta was selected as the meeting place of the great council next year and the following officers were elected by the ensuing year: Great sachem, C. F. Stroberg, Macon; great senior sagamore, J. R. Miller, Marietta; great junior sagamore, W. C. Hendrix, Atlanta; great prophet, Sam J. Bell, Jefferson; great keeper of records, M. J. Daniel, Griffin; great keeper of wampum, George E. Johnson, Atlanta; great representative to the supreme council, Sam J. Bell, of Jefferson; E. A. Baughan, of Atlanta; L. H. Chappell, of Columbus; C. C. Gillett, of Atlanta, and H. M Ward, of Savannah.

An important feature of the meeting was the adoption of a resolution providing for the appointment of a committee to draft an amendment to the constitution and bylaws so that the Georgia Red Men may dispose of their widows and orphans fund as they see proper and not turn it over for distribution by the national authorities of the order for distribution as before. Early this afternoon the visitors enjoyed a trolley car ride to all points of interest in the city, after which at 4 o'clock there was a boat excursion down the Chattahoochee river.

PAROLES NOT INTENDED FOR MISDEMEANANTS

Attorney General Felder Tells Governor Law Applicable Only to Felony Convicts.

In a written opinion handed to Governor Brown yesterday, Attorney General Thomas S. Felder holds that the parole law of 1908 does not apply to misdemeanor convicts. The statute by express terms applies only to felony convicts, he says.

Governor Brown had propounded to the attorney general three questions in regard to the parole law: Whether under the law misdemeanor convicts might be paroled; second, whether felony convicts, sentenced as for misdemeanors, could be paroled; third, whether a person sentenced to serve terms for two felonies at the same time, the second term to begin at the expiration of the first, could be paroled before the expiration of the first term for which he was sentenced.

The first two questions, the attorney general answers in the negative. To the last, he replies that a felony convict may be paroled before the first of two consecutive sentences expire, but at the expiration of his first sentence, he must re-enter the penitentiary to serve his second term.

The governor and the prison commission have held all along that the parole law did not apply to misdemeanor convicts, but there have been so many applications for paroles from misdemeanants, that the governor thought it best to get an official interpretation of the law on the subject.

PLAN PRAYER MEETINGS FOR WESLEY MEMORIAL

The first of the popular midweek prayer meetings at Wesley Memorial church, inaugurated by the pastor, Rev. W. R. Hendrix, was held Wednesday. A feature of the meeting was an interesting moving picture show after the talk by Rev. Hendrix. Rev. Hendrix talked upon "The Significance of the Wednesday Half Holiday."

It is the plan of Rev. Hendrix to make these midweek meetings interesting and recreational in their nature. Some timely topic will be discussed at each meeting.

guns to save their money and buy them. She said that when she was ready for them to use their guns, she would let them know. She said she was going to Charleston to tell the governor that if he did not release the prisoners held at Pratt, at military headquarters, they would tear up the state."

Swearing by "Mother" Jones.

C. C. Woods, a negro miner at Boomer, said he heard the same speech and that "Mother" Jones told the men that "if necessary she would take a gun and go with them."

"Did she use any profane language?" asked Attorney Knight for the operators.

"She swore a good deal for a lady," replied the miner.

Before the committee finally adjourned Senator Kenyon and the attorneys for both sides agreed on a large amount of documentary testimony, transcripts of records, and public files that are to be placed in the record. These included a copy of the letters between Governor Glasscock, representatives of the operators and representatives of the miners attending the negotiations which preceded the strike, copies of the assessments on the lands on Paint Creek and Cabin Creek, owned by the Pratt Land company, copies of the payrolls of the mines, and data as to the ownership of the coal companies and the capital they represent with the dividends paid and profits made.

MANAGERS AND OWNERS TO MEET HERE IN 1915

After a hot fight on the floor of the Building Managers and Owners' convention in Cincinnati the local Building Managers and Owners, who had organized only a few weeks prior to the convention for the immediate purpose of bringing the convention to Atlanta in 1914, succeeded in landing the convention for 1915.

They just missed bringing it to Atlanta next year by a "gnat's heel," so to speak. As soon as the question of the next meeting place was brought up C. F. Wilkinson, L. S. Gill, W. A. Jones, Jesse Draper and A. V. Cates, representatives of Atlanta, were on the floor. The 1913 convention was lost rather by graceful acknowledgement of first claim than by defeat, for Duluth, the busy little Minnesota burg, had had an eye on the gathering long before the Atlanta men organized. So Atlanta withdrew her invitation in favor of Duluth upon condition that the Building Owners and Managers come to Atlanta the following year.

This convention probably represents more capital than any other convention that meets with the exception of the Bankers' association.

BIG MEETING CERTAIN AT TAFT HALL TONIGHT

Much Interest Felt in Atlanta Over Future of Western and Atlantic Railroad.

Possibility that Georgia will have to look forward to her future income from the Western and Atlantic railroad to relieve her financial stringency makes the problem of the road's future one of compelling interest to the entire state, and there is every indication that there will be a large attendance of Atlanta business men at the meeting called by the chamber of commerce at Taft hall tonight at 8 o'clock.

It is not the purpose of this meeting to seek to solve the problem of the future of this big state asset, nor anything like it. It will merely determine whether a call for convention of business men would be wise and advisable at this time, for the purpose of considering the future of this property and offering suggestions to the legislature which must act upon it.

On the program for brief speeches relative to the state road are Governor Joseph M. Brown, W. A. Wimbish, Hooper Alexander, James R. Gray and Chairman J. M. Candler, of the state railroad commission. Following the discussion the question as to calling such a convention will be determined.

Tax reforms are now being agitated and effort will be made at the coming session of the legislature to adopt some tax reform measure. But in the event this should fail, there is still one asset upon which Georgia can fall back on, and that is the Western and Atlantic railroad.

WARNER COUNTY MOVE IS STRONGLY OPPOSED

Judge Revell Says Representatives From Counties Involved Are United Against It.

Strong opposition has developed to the creation of Warner county with Manchester as county seat out of territory to be taken from Meriwether, Talbot and Harris counties, according to H. H. Revell, judge of the city court of Greenville, who was in the city yesterday.

Judge Revell said that there was a very strong sentiment against the creation of th new county in all three of the counties to be affected by the project, particularly in Meriwether. So strong was the feeling against it that the representatives from all of the counties concerned—Meriwether, Talbot and Harris—would vote against it when it came up in the house.

"We are very much against any division of Meriwether county," said Judge Revell. "Ours is one of the proudest counties in the state, having produced three governors, besides justices of the supreme court and other men prominent in Georgia history. Of course, we claim Governor Slaton as he was born in our county.

"I understand that there is an equally strong sentiment against the new county movement in the other counties concerned. The real purpose of the movement is to boost the value of real estate in Manchester. Outside of those financially concerned in it, the proposed county of Warner has little backing."

Before he went on the bench, Judge Revell represented his county in the legislature.

FOUR EDITORS HELD FOR CRIMINAL LIBEL

Seattle, Wash., June 18.—Four editors were arrested here today on secret indictments charging criminal libel, returned last night by a special grand jury.

Colonel Alden J. Blethen, editor of The Seattle Times, and his son, Clarence B. Blethen, managing editor, are charged with having criminally libeled Joseph Jarvis, a socialist agitator, by printing an article alleging that he had absconded with party funds.

Leroy Sanders, editor of The Seattle Star, is charged with having criminally libeled a county official during the grand jury investigation of charges against the county commissioners.

Edward Clayson, Sr., editor of The Patriarch, a weekly paper, is accused of having criminally libeled the judges of the superior court by making attacks on their character.

IS IT NOT TIME?

Since May 1 there have been nine homicides, twenty hold-ups, sixty-five burglaries in Atlanta.

The first aim of the law is the meting out of such punishment as will prevent crime. Unless law discharges that function, the community is put in jeopardy. The police are the agents of the law.

In the name of the people!—

What steps are being taken to render life, order, property, safe in Atlanta? What steps are being taken to safeguard the reputation of the community?

Is it not high time to add, if necessary, to the police force? Is it not time to exercise extreme vigilance, to pay as much attention relatively to sinister as to frivolous offenses?

Is it not time?

BLUE-PRINT DEVELOPMENT.

Perhaps the most practical plan yet advanced for the all-around development of the south is that of the Southern Settlement and Development organization, with headquarters in Baltimore. S. Davies Warfield, president of the Continental Trust Company of Baltimore, is president of the organization. The scope and purposes of the association's activities are, in effect, south-wide. In all, sixteen states will furnish the field. Work is to begin immediately and to proceed upon a scale not before attempted in the southern states.

Elsewhere The Constitution publishes a skeleton outline of the organization. William H. Manss, vice president of the association, is now in Atlanta surveying the field and effecting preliminary organization. He is convinced that the movement is destined to mark a new era in southern development. Judging from the care and conservatism with which plans and details have been elaborated, his prophecy is justified.

The Southern Settlement and Development organization expects to quicken southern development and prosperity by the blueprint method. That means that in agriculture, in industry and with regard to settlers scientific procedure will be scrupulously worked out and the results applied. The trouble with many of the past efforts to develop the south is that they were throttled by verbiage and enthusiasm. This latest propaganda does not overlook enthusiasm, which is invariably an indispensable driving force, but it harnesses it to hard-headed endeavor. The idea is to make the organization a model clearing house of southern developmental energy and co-operation. The headquarters at Baltimore will maintain experts in every industry that may affect the south. Each state will form and control its separate organization, closely affiliated with the central organization and operating in sympathy with its purposes. The experts of the state organization will investigate, analyze and consult with authorities in each separate line of endeavor, from cattle-growing to town-building. The south hardly knows today what it possesses. The organization purposes, by documentary evidence, to open its eyes and keep them open. It proposes to take evidence of that nature to the outer world. It does not intend to depend for results on oratory. It is going into the business of development with business methods.

Funds for the support of the central and state organizations will come from subscriptions by interested individuals and corporations. It is a safe assumption that since every dollar thus spent is sure of big dividends, there will be no trouble securing support and maintenance. It should further be said that the disbursement of funds is thoroughly safeguarded by constant supervision of the finance committee of each state. The fact that Robert F. Maddox, of Atlanta, is a member of the central executive committee of the organization is guarantee of the practicability of the work. It is guarantee that soon there will be added to the forces working for the south's welfare an army, not of professional "boosters," but of experts who know their calling from the ground up.

"UNDER ANY CIRCUMSTANCES."

Driven to bay and made ridiculous by the militant suffragettes, the British government appears to at last belatedly have made up its mind to fight fire with fire. This appears in the recent charge of Judge Phillimore, in London, when sentencing six of the suffragettes to varying sentences for violence and the destruction of property. He stated the general conviction that the time had come to cease showing leniency. Then he declared that "I am bound to add that if the home secretary consults me, as he often consults a judge, I shall take upon myself the responsibility of saying to him that the ringleaders among you, at any rate, should not be let out of prison under any circumstances."

The significance of the situation lies in the last three words of the judge's charge. Imprisoned suffragettes, and notably their leader, Mrs. Pankhurst, have previously been winning freedom by "hunger strikes." After having tried forcible feeding, persuasion and other methods, the government has been driven to the alternative of releasing the women rather than assuming responsibility for a serious breakdown. It cannot be said that the motive has been uniformly of a humanitarian nature. The chief incentive for such leniency has been the fear that if these women achieved even a self-imposed death the cry of "martyrdom" would bring down the wrath of the country upon the head of the liberal party.

If Premier Asquith has now decided to proceed to sternly repressive measures regardless of consequences, England and the world may look for dramatic times. Undoubtedly, many of the suffragettes are sufficiently fanatical or zealous, whichever you prefer, to starve themselves to death. There may follow a succession of tragedies at this source and a great deal of pitiful resentment on part of the militant suffragettes.

But—the effect of such a policy will be two-fold—it will break the back of militancy and, in the end, it will hasten the cause of universal suffrage. For once the women discover that the government will no longer make fish of women criminals and fowl of men criminals, and that death and suffering are the portion of the woman who elects to starve herself, they will cease violent demonstrations. For a time they will continue in sheer bravado. But the rebellion will not be of long duration. On the other hand, the spectacle of such immolating devotion on part of the suffragettes will ultimately move the country to give them the ballot. Up to this time they have inspired England only with disgust and resentment—two factors fatal to the success of propaganda. Let them substitute pity and logic, and their cause is won.

In coming down rigidly on militancy, therefore, the government will very likely provide the movement with its final successful impulse.

PEANUTS VICTORIOUS.

The city of Macon, which has many provocations to happiness, seems now to have removed the last fly from its ointment. For once again, and perhaps forever, peanuts have returned to the streets of the city. For that joyous development credit is due Bridges Smith, one of the few individuals who can give gentleness and sweetness to politics, and the tribe that followed him in a determined insurrection.

Some days ago, it seems, the chief of police in a rash moment deemed the peanut vendors a nuisance. He told the fat and jovial cops to keep them moving. The cops did. The vendors vented their anguish in continuous protests. The proletariat, also going peanutless to bed, rose in its wrath and a few other things. Nothing doing. The chief was as firm as reinforced concrete that has been left out overnight.

Enter Bridges Smith. Like all poets, Bridges dotes on peanuts. Like a certain little boy, in a certain well-known song "ad," he's "never happy till he gets 'em." Forthwith he headed an insurgency. Now, when Bridges insurges, the populace stands from under. For Bridges is a heavyweight, both politically and from a standpoint of personality. So when he told his grievance to the chief, in language low but emphatic, the chief could not help but hear. He revoked his ukase. Smiling, urbane, overflowing with forgiveness and peanuts, the vendors returned to the streets. Bridges was happy. We suspect Colonel Pendleton and Pat Gambrell and a few others were happy also. The proletariat rejoices. In the ecstacy of the moment it has even forgotten the capitol-removal ambition. The only thing that is remembered is that peanuts are to be had, by the sack or the barrel. And if that isnt cause for exuberance, by the great horn spoon, what it?

Bryan isn't different; the walled-in, tariff-tortured senators have all had to cancel speaking engagements.

Judging by the way the British suffragettes are raiding the mails there will soon be nothing but dead letters there.

An Unanswerable Argument.

"I hears lots er talk 'bout de women folks votin'," said the old colored brother, "but I ain't takin' no stock in it. Dey ain't no mention of Eve ever tellin' Adam dat she wanted ter go ter de polls an' vote. No; she stayed home, she did, mindin' de chillun an' darnin' Adam's sox."

"Hol' on dar," cried a brother in the congregation: "Adam didn't wear no sox, an' dar warn't no darnin' needed in his day an' time, an' de only polls dar wus fishin' poles."

But the old man was equal to the emergency. He said:

"You talks lak' one er de foolish brotherins. Ef Eve didn't have a needle how come she sewed dem fig leaves an' made a dress? An' of dar wus no politics in dat time, how come de devil wuz dar? You makes me es tired ez ef I'd been plowin' a mule all day, in de hot sun!"

Letters to Father.

"Dear Old Man—This is to inform you that we are still enjoying life at the seaside, which is due to your kindness in staying at home and keeping everlastingly at your labors. We know it's pretty hot in the dusty city, but you can grab a cool breeze occasionally, and that helps some. We remember you every night in our prayers, asking Providence to keep you in health, so that you will not lose a day from your work the balance of the summer.

"P. S.—Your salary came a day late last week. Please be sure to mail it in time hereafter."

Milton's High-Priced Hair.

"Here's a story that says a man gave $600 for a lock of Milton's hair," said The Hillville Citizen. "I dunno what made his hair so valuable, or what branch o' the Milton family he belonged to. There was a man o' that name hereabouts some twenty years ago, in the hoss-tradin' business, but of he an' all that was his'n had been put up fer sale they wouldn't have fetched as much as the price of a month's board at a cross-roads hotel!"

A Story of the Moment

By WALT MASON
The Famous Prose Poet

MORE FOOLISHNESS.

(Copyright, 1913, for The Constitution.)

"Mr. and Mrs. Campdown have chartered a tent at the Chautauqua grounds and are going to live there for two weeks," announced Mrs. Jamesworthy. "That will be a delightful outing, and so inexpensive. I think we should do the same."

"I had already thought of chartering an airship and spending the summer months about three miles above ground," replied Jamesworthy, "but maybe your plan would be better. Of course, we must have an outing of some kind, like blithering idiots. It would never do to pretend that we are sane, responsible human beings, and stay at home.

"Ever since the winter took its departure we have been doing things to this house to make it fit for white people to live in. You inaugurated your grand house cleaning crusade on time and when that was done we had painters and paperhangers here, and when they had done their worst I had to spend fabulous sums to have new screens provided for all the windows. It has been one carnival of expense for weeks together, but I submitted uncomplainingly, although I felt that I was walking in the shadow of the poorhouse. And now that we have our house so it's satisfactory in every way, you want to take a skillet and a coffee pot and go living in a tent where the flies can get in and bite pieces out of you, and the musquitoes will sing you to sleep every night.

"I used to hope, in the dim dead past, Mrs. Jamesworthy, that you would acquire some horse sense as the years rolled on, but you become giddier all the time. No scheme can be too foolish to gain your interest. If it is suggested that you scrub beldam of the neighborhood, I am always offering you wise suggestions, the fruit of long years of experience in this world's broad field of battle, and you ignore them so. But if Mrs. Camperdown comes over here and proposes that you leave your comfortable home to camp out in a swamp and live on canned tomatoes and river water, you think it an inspiration.

"You never profit by past experience. I suppose you have entirely forgotten the time you attended the Chautauqua several years ago. You wanted me to go with you and occupy a lodge in some vast wilderness, but I sternly refused, not having lost all control of my reasoning faculties. So you went with the Clinkenbeards, and when you had been gone there a few hours you managed to get me by telephone, and said I was missing the chance of my life. It was simply heavenly down there, living in a tent, you said. I told you to call me up two days later, and if you still held to the same theory I'd seriously consider joining you in your round of festivities.

"You didn't wait two days to call me up, Mrs. Jamesworthy. Next morning, before daylight, when the cock was crowing aloft, the telephone rang an alarm, and when I put the receiver to my shell like ear I recognized your voice. You were squawking like a half-drowned hen, and begged me, in the name of all that was sacred, to get a horse and wagon and bring you and your mattress and coffee pot and skillet back to civilization. It had rained all night, and when you woke you and your mattress were floating around like Moses among the bullrushes, and then there came a gust of wind and the tent came down and it took half the people on the grounds to get you out of the wreck.

"Full well do I remember how you looked when I drove into the Chautauqua grounds to haul you home. You were plastered with mud and herbage and your nose was blue, and your teeth chattering, and I remember that I wondered how I ever came to marry you, as I helped you into the wagon. Although I took the back streets on the way home, a great many people saw you and have been talking about it ever since. I see you recall these painful details as I enumerate them, and you must be surprised that you seriously considered for one moment the idea of going through such an experience again. Just make up your mind to stay home this summer and be thankful that a fly can't get into the house, even if it has a search warrant."

KEEP YOUR WORD.

You can make your Word with every man as good as your bond. It is said of Grover Cleveland that when he gave his Word a man could build on it. If you keep your Word once given you become a magnet that will draw strong men your way.

Keep Your Word.

You who are a Parent—keep your Word with your Children; you who are an Employer—keep your Word with your Employees; you who are an Employee—keep your Word with your Employer; you who have Friends—keep your Word with them and you will keep them.

Keep Your Word.

When you have an Appointment—keep it promptly. When you say you will Pay a man—Pay him. Never give your Word unless you are certain that you can keep it.

Keep Your Word.

The most important thing you can do is to keep your Word with Yourself. Never think or say to yourself that you will do a thing without going ahead and doing it. Do but this and you need have no worry about other people talking you at your Word.

Keep Your Word.

Richard Wagner.

(Centenary Celebration, 1913.)

As bold Columbus, steadfast steering west,
O'er seas uncharted pressed his daring prow,
Doubt, taunt and danger facing with calm breast:
His soul divinely by his faith obsest.
That night and day said to his dauntless
"Sail on, sail on, a new world waits thy quest!"
So, like this greatest Genoese, didst thou,
Immortal Wagner, o'er Tone's untried sea
In faith fare forth, with Genius at the helm,
A faith nor doubt nor scorn could overwhelm,
Searching for a new world of harmony—
Lo, from the sea it rose and crowned thy quest!
Faith and thy genius won the victory,
And even the Fates, smiling, nad sailed with thee.

The World's Mysteries

MYSTERIES of LITERATURE

WAS JOHN BUNYAN A GYPSY?

(Copyright, 1913, for The Constitution.)

Was John Bunyan, who wrote the great allegory, "Pilgrim's Progress," a gypsy? Very little is known of the early life of this wonderful man. Bunyan's father was what was then called a whitesmith, a maker and mender of pots and kettles. John described himself as a tinker, who traveled around the country in search of jobs. Contemporary literature depicts the tinker's craft as disreputable, but discrimination must be used to distinguish between the vagrant and the steady handicraftsman. Bunyan wrote "My descent was of a low and inconsiderable station, my father's house being of that rank that is meanest and most despised of all the families of the land."

It has been generally believed that if he was not entirely of gypsy extraction, he had some gypsy blood in his veins. Sir Walter Scott was disposed to favor the opinion that the Bunyans, "though reclaimed and settled, may have sprung from the gypsy tribe."

A writer, who took exception to this opinion, said that there was nothing of the gypsy about Bunyan, for he has described as having been: "Tall of stature, strong-boned, with sparkling eyes, wearing his hair on the upper lip after the old British fashion, his hair reddish, but in his later days sprinkled with gray, his nose well cut, his mouth not too large, his forehead something high and his habits always plain and modest."

There is more of the Saxon than the Zingari in that description, as appears also from the portraits of Bunyan. Another argument opposed to the gypsy theory is that the register in the parish where Bunyan was born shows that the family had been settled in Bedfordshire for a long time, and some of them were persons of property and in a position above the class suggested by the term "gypsy." Besides, gypsies at the time of Bunyan were ill in favor in England and they were much persecuted as undesirables, which the Bunyan family seem not to have been.

To refute the point of view of Bunyan having been a gypsy other writers take the parish register and copy therefrom a long list of Bunyans who were baptized, held estates and were married at least two centuries before the time of the "Tinker of Bedford Jail." They say that this disproves the theory that Bunyan may have had gypsy blood in his veins. They also affirm that the long existence of the name in the county "effectually disposes of the supposition that the Bunyans were gypsies."

But then in many instances it is shown in English history that the gypsies assumed the Christian and surnames of Great Britain and Europe generally to protect themselves against the severity of the laws passed against them. The tradition among all the British gypsies is that their British names were originally assumed from those of people of influence among whom the tribe settled, as they scattered over the country, and had districts assigned to them under chieftains, with a king over all, and tokens or passports to keep each in his district, or from infringing on the rights of others.

As to the writers who argued that Bunyan's personality indicated he was not a gypsy, this statement is taken exception to by Mr. Simson in his "History of the Gypsies," who says that a person can, in the most important sense of the word, be a gypsy with blue eyes and fair hair as well as black, no matter what his character of habits, calling or creed may be.

At the time of Bunyan's active work it was even death by law for being a gypsy and "felony without benefit of clergy" for associating with them. Bunyan himself wrote as follows: 'Another thought came into my mind, and that was, whether we (his family and relations) were of the Israelites or no? For finding in the Scriptures that they were once the peculiar people of God, thought I, if I were one of this race my soul must needs be happy. Now, again, I found with me a great longing about this question, but could not tell how I should. At last I asked my father of it, who told me, 'No, we are not.'"

A writer commenting on this wrote: "Language like this is pregnant with meaning when used by a man who was really a gypsy of mixed blood, who must have spoken the gypsy language in great purity; for, considering the extent to which it is spoken in England today, we can well believe that it was very pure two centuries ago, and that Bunyan might have written works even in that language."

Writers may go on arguing, but they will never know whether or not the writer of the greatest of all allegories was a gypsy.

This Movement to Promote General Southern Development

"We are going to help the south find and exhibit its own greatness; we are going to help the south find and conquer its own weaknesses. We are starting out on the work of southern development with a thorough business organization, as careful and as detailed as the organization of an army that undertakes a protracted campaign."

That is the way in which William H. Manss, vice president of the Southern Settlement and Development organization, yesterday expressed the purpose of the organization with which he is connected. S. Davies Warfield, president of the Continental Trust company, is president of the organization, and leaders of important southern commercial enterprises are vitally interested in it. Mr. Manss is making a tour of the south to study conditions at first hand, and to make a survey preliminary to the work of the state organizations which are to be formed and work hand in hand with the parent organization in Baltimore.

Business Men Interested.

Throughout the south representative business men are interested in the movement. In Atlanta, Robert F. Maddox is a member of the central executive committee and will actively assist in organizing Georgia at large. Mr. Manss was a guest at a luncheon yesterday, tendered the Boys' Corn clubs by the chamber of commerce. Wilmer L. Moore presided. J. G. Holleman, H. G. Hastings and others made speeches. Mr. Manss explained the section-wide scope of the organization and asked for the hearty co-operation of the business men of Atlanta.

An idea of the machinery of the organization and the scientific care with which it is arranged can be gained from the following schedule:

Details.

Divisions of Organization. General Office or Headquarters Staff. State Bureaus or Committees. General Organization Committee of a President, one or more Vice Presidents, a Vice President and General Manager, Secretary-Treasurer.

An executive committee of thirty-one or more. Each state has at least one member on the executive committee. The executive committee has the active management of the organization and confirms all appointments of chairmen of the various state committees.

A publicity expert, who shall have charge of rightly exploiting the south, her resources, the thorough scientific investigations made by the south, utilizing the literature that they have gathered and presenting the facts regarding the south to possible settlers, investors, manufacturers and jobbers.

These experts shall establish a library along their various lines at headquarters and gather such literature from all sources which shall be and aid in disseminating accurate literature, correct maps, pamphlets, etc., to seekers for information.

Funds for the headquarters staff are provided by corporations, transportation companies, individuals, jobbing houses, etc., interested in two or more of the southern states. In other words those interested in interstate business of the south, together with those interested in a more sentimental way in the south's development and settlement.

Each state included in the list of southern states has a representative on the executive committee. He represents his state in the councils and activities of the organization at large.

Each state is represented on the general finance committee by a citizen who acts as chairman of the state finance committee.

The state finance committee is composed of the chairman, who shall appoint, subject to approval by the president and vice president and general manager, a member of each county subscribing to the plans of the organization. The duties of this committee shall be to collect funds for the work of the state, which they represent, select some bank in that state as a depository of these funds, name a state treasurer under bonds, appropriate to the various state committees moneys for the conduct of the work, make and pass on vouchers issued, check the accounts and sign and O. K. all bills authorized and paid from funds in the state shall be used in and for that state.

The executive committee, with the member of the executive committee, and the approval of the president and vice president and general manager, shall be the final authority as to what shall be done by the committees, always receiving recommendations from the state committees through their chairman of the necessity of the work to be done.

Farm Committee.

There shall be an agricultural committee, selected by the above state finance committee and executive committee, which shall consist of a representative from the various existing agricultural committees of the state and county, agricultural colleges and state agricultural commissioner, if one exists. In those counties where such an association does not exist the committee may appoint an agriculturalist or farmer to represent the county.

This committee shall have charge of the agricultural development of the state, appoint such an auxiliary committee as are necessary to study and carry out the requirements of the various plans by the chamber of commerce. All these committees shall become clearing houses on their respective departments of work of information and censures of those unscrupulous methods which may be employed to detriment and harm of and to the state.

Wellington's Black Trousers.

(From The London Chronicle.)

Knee breeches survived in fashionable quarters until well into the last century. They were ultimately displaced by trousers, but the trouser on its first appearance was a tight-fitting garment—a sort of extension of the breeches from the knee to the ankle. J. C. Wright tells us in his book, "The Good Old Times," that "the Duke of Wellington was refused admission to Almack's in 1814 because he wore black trousers instead of breeches and silk stockings, but it would appear from a later reference that trousers were admitted to those fashionable assembly rooms in King street, St. James', in the course of the following year."

A New Vegetable Ivory.

(From Daily Consular and Trade Reports.)

M. Gaston Bonnier has submitted to the National Agricultural society of Paris samples of a new vegetable ivory made from the albumen of the fruit of a certain small palm (of the genus Hyphaena, tribe Borassus) growing in the forests of French Sudan. The albumen hardens on exposure to the air, and it resembles natural ivory in color and texture. This product is said to resemble the vegetable ivory from another palm (Phytelephas macrocarpa) found in equatorial South America.

HOT SPELL BROKEN, SAYS FORECASTER

Thunder Showers on Wednesday Afternoon, and Hail in Suburbs, Cools Temperature of Atlanta.

The hot spell is broken at last, is the belief of Forecaster C. F. von Herrmann, following the thunder storm of Wednesday afternoon, when a hailstorm passed over the northeast section of the city and rain fell in the business section, bringing the temperature down from 96 degrees to 76 degrees in less than an hour.

"There is now every indication in the atmosphere that more local thunder showers throughout this entire section will have considerable effect in cooling the temperature," said the forecaster, "and while the official forecast is on for 'fair weather' for Thursday, the chances are that there will be a number of local showers in the state which will relieve conditions where they occur."

Mercury Rises to 78.

The mercury had risen to 78 degrees at 7 o'clock Wednesday morning, and the lowest temperature in the previous twenty-four hours had been 78 degrees, so that the day set out to be one of the hottest of the summer and, in fact, of the past two years.

At 3 o'clock the official thermometer wavered a few moments and then the column of mercury climbed to 96 degrees and a fraction over. The air was dry and hot and the sun's rays showed no dimunition. It appeared that the 97-degree mark might be reached before the sun began to set.

Distant rolls of thunder and a sudden breeze announced a change, and within a few minutes great pattering drops of rain were welcomed. It seemed as if each drop was falling directly on the column of mercury and beating it down to a more bearable position, for within a few minutes the air was fresh and cool again.

Only one-tenth of an inch of rainfall was recorded in the business section of Atlanta, but this, and the clouds overhanging the sun, had their effect on the temperature. For one time no one complained of a rain in the middle of the business hours.

No Hail in City.

No hail fell within the city limits, as far as is known, but from Lakewood throughout the stretch around the northeast portion of the suburbs, hailstones . . . big as the proverbial hen's egg were reported, and their cooling effect became significant at once.

The rain and the hail in the outer portions of Atlanta were sufficient to cool the atmosphere so that there was not the usual "steaming heat" that seems to rise after a very light shower on a hot day, and the drying off of the pavements and sidewalks followed quickly and without the unpleasant effect. A short time after the rain ceased falling the air was again dry but much cooler, and the 20-degree drop was felt everywhere.

Forecaster Herrmann makes no official forecast of another cooling shower today, although he holds it the hope of one, by saying unofficially that indications point to local showers generally, and that this section may be fortunate in getting another one. He does not expect the temperature to be quite as high again today, and believes that the "hot spell," that for the past two days has kept the maximum temperature at 96 degrees, is about broken up.

INSTITUTE IN CRISP TO BE HELD JUNE 26

Cordele, Ga., June 18.—(Special.)—The Crisp county farmers institute will be held in Cordele on Thursday, June 26. As the Institute will be held under the auspices of the State College of Agriculture, a number of speakers connected with that institution appear on the program. Among them are Andrew M. Soule, president of the college; J. Phil Campbell, state agent in farm demonstration work; Guy W. Wilson, secretary of extension department; R. S. Hollingshead, adjutant professor of soils; L. L. Jones, professor of poultry husbandry, and Professor C. M. Riley, instructor in horticulture. The introductory remarks will be made by J. B. Adkins, president of the Crisp County Farmers' institute organization.

Ex-Boss Cox on Trial.

Cincinnati, June 18.—George B. Cox, former politician and financier, was placed on trial in the common pleas court here today, charged with having misapplied funds of the Cincinnati Trust company to the extent of $115,000. It is alleged in the indictment that Cox loaned this amount to the Ford & Johnson Chair company after that concern is alleged to have become insolvent.

INDIVIDUALISM IN POLITICS ADVOCATED BY JIM HAM LEWIS IN BACCALAUREATE ADDRESS

Athens, Ga., June 18.—(Special.)—Hon. James Hamilton Lewis, a son of this state, now senator from Illinois and democratic whip in the senate, a man who has had a remarkable career in public life, made the annual baccalaureate address before the graduating class of the University of Georgia today.

"The Man and His Government," was the theme of the address. The speaker began with the question: "Who are you and for what came you here?"

"All the ills of man are of government—the government of man, of himself, within himself, or the government of man around him. The complaint of man is not the thing, but the effects of the thing. That which he feels or that which he fears is to be is the ever inciting cause of his despair, of his revolt," the speaker laid down as propositions upon which to build. He cited the first contest of the Roman plebeians against the patricians for a share in the government and a part of the earnings of those who toiled. The same struggle, he declared, is going on today—the efforts of the masses as voiced by Jefferson and Lincoln and later by Bryan, Roosevelt, and Wilson.

Things Not so Bad.

"Let us be just, however," he pleaded, "and declare as truth that our society is not divided into two parts, each arrayed against the other. It is not true that one class is captained by rich rogues and manned by traitors to liberty and enemies to justice. Nor is it true that the poor and the toilers are an army of friendless, captained by demagogues, inspired by lawlessness, and directing malicious violence against the prosperous. There are offenders in all classes of citizens but the offenders are the exceptions. It is not true, as some prominent men and publications assert, that all is corruption in public life and defilement in private homes. Yet many wrongs have been inflicted upon the nation by a certain portion of our people."

The speaker noted the demand for the initiative and referendum was caused by the need for a remedy against corrupt legislatures—had the old system been obeyed in the spirit there would be no need for experiments, he said. "There is nothing wrong in the machinery created by the fathers; the wrong has been in the mechanics entrusted with the operation. The election of senators by the people direct was not demanded as a better system, but because election of senators through the legislatures has been often through corruption. It was a protest against infamies perpetrated upon the people.

"The recall of judges is a protest 'likewise against that class of judges who have defiled their high places and served personal interests rather than justice. These demands are protests—as the same sort of protests were made in other cases against corruption.

"Sometimes the man is burned up by the fire he kindles, however. It is not prudent always to seize at first hand anything that may resent wrong and merely express protest. The remedy oftimes is worse than the evil. We seek the real remedy. I reject the doctrine of confiscation of property and destruction of society in the name of progressiveness, and I reject also the other doctrine of letting evils continue that the profit in them may not be distributed."

Individualism Needed.

The speaker rested the remedy with the generation of young men now coming to their duties. He decried the tendency toward communal government, which destroys the individual responsibility, leadership, and growth. He said: "The demand of the day is more of the manliness of dependence upon the union of men. We need personal patriotism like Washington's and Lee's. Christ, the Man, and Son of Man, to live under, and God, the Creator of Man, the personal director and comforter of each in His efforts to serve every other man. In yourselves lies the hope of salvation from all the evils. In self and the individual man will rest all your future. It is you—be you you are—and the vote within you says: 'I am the master of my fate; I am the captain of my soul.'"

SURPRISE MARRIAGE CLOSES MACON VISIT OF ATLANTA WOMAN

A business partnership as well as a matrimonial partnership is the double surprise that comes to the friends of L. D. Rembert, of Macon, proprietor of the Ford Sales company, and Miss Beasie I. Williman, of Atlanta, proprietress of the Sanitary Hair Dressing parlors on Peachtree street, in the announcement of their marriage which took place last Saturday at Perry, Ga.

The couple had been sweethearts for eight years prior to their marriage. In fact, they had not intended to marry last saturday at all until just a few minutes before the ceremony was performed.

Miss Williman was visiting friends in Macon, and was just boarding the train for Atlanta when Mr. Rembert caught her by the arm and pulled her from the steps.

"Look out!" exclaimed Miss Williman. "You will make me miss the train."

"We should worry," replied Mr. Rembert. "Come on; let's get married. We've always intended to, and we had just as well do it now."

Miss Williman agreed, and she jumped into Mr. Rembert's waiting automobile and took a spin to Perry, where they were married at the Perry hotel by Dr. Gardner.

Mr. Rembert will sell out his business in Macon and enter into a business partnership with his wife in the hair dressing business in this city.

Mr. Rembert was formerly of Dalton.

EMPLOYERS SEARCHING FOR L. W. LANCASTER

Campbell and Brownlee, furniture dealers, at 226 Peters street, are searching today for their collector, L. W. Lancaster, a young man of 26 years of age, who, according to Mr. Brownlee, left the office Monday night and has not been heard of since.

No shortage in accounts is known to exist, and there is no reason apparent why the young man should have thrown up his job and apparently left town without giving notice. Mr. Brownlee stated last night that he had communicated with the man's father at East Point, and also his uncle, with whom he boarded at 22 Ferguson street, in Inman Park, and that the relatives are in the dark. Neither of them, he asserted, had heard anything of the man, and he declared that the uncle stated that he had not come home on Monday night.

Lancaster is described as being of neat and attractive appearance and slender build. He is about 5 feet six inches in height, and of light complexion. According to a friend, he had been married once, but had separated from his wife and had no family at the time of his leaving.

CITIZENS OF GUYTON OBTAIN COURT ORDER RESTRAINING MAYOR

Guyton, Ga., June 18.—(Special.)—Presiding in chambers at Clinton, Ga., Judge Walter W. Sheppard, of the Atlantic circuit, sanctioned the petition of Guyton citizens against that Mayor Haywood be restrained from further official actions involving the town's government relating to the confirmation of a contract for an electrical lighting plant and a system of waterworks now under construction. The sheriff will serve the mayor with the orders of the judge and will require a $30,000 bond before the executive of Guyton's municipality can proceed in his usual official capacity.

The date set for the final argument has not yet been named but it is very likely the date will be in the near future.

The contentions are said to be based upon technicalities embodied in the town charter, disputing the eligibility of the present mayor to hold the office that he was elected to fill.

The temporary injunction asked against the contractors that are now on the electrical and waterworks here was refused by Judge Sheppard, and, notwithstanding the opposition by some of the citizens, the work of construction is progressing rapidly, and it will only be a very short time before the electrical current will be turned on for the entire city and a good system of waterworks in operation.

Wilson in Bankruptcy.

Ernest L. Wilson, of Atlanta, a piano tuner and repairer, yesterday filed with Deputy Clerk Beers, of the United States court a voluntary petition in bankruptcy. His papers indicate liabilities of $153.75 with assets of $320. A. M. Harlam, salesman, asked for the benefit of the national bankrupt laws, saying he owed $1,193.50 and that he had assets of $1,000.

JAPS USING SLOGAN OF PATRICK HENRY

Tokio, June 18.—Posters calling a mass meeting for tomorrow and bearing the headline "Give me liberty or give me death—Patrick Henry," were posted today by agitators on walls in the vicinity of the United States embassy and at other points in the Japanese capital.

Count the Cost

> "When her masters saw that the hope of their gains was gone ——"
> Acts XVI:19

Complaints will come.

Eleven houses, the so-called segregated district, and more than thirty-three houses scattered over Atlanta have been closed.

In those houses a seven hundred thousand dollar a year business had depended upon the betrayal of sufficient girls to supply the trade.

An annual rental of sixty thousand and more dollars had been paid the landlords.

The closed doors marked the end.

Today, the white slaver cannot sell his "meal-ticket," a pitiable girl, in Mechanic Street.

Its doors and windows are boarded up.

And its former denizens know of no place in Atlanta where under police protection trapped girls can be bought and sold.

Who, then, is complaining of Atlanta's immorality?

The Underworld——Laugh not!

Continuous, concerted clamor is one of the oldest devices of the crook.

BY IT, JERUSALEM'S GRAFTERS crucified Christ; their clatter convinced Roman Pilate that multitudes desired the release of Murderer Barabbas and demanded the death of Jesus, our Saviour.

The Light of the World, they tried to quench; but by the Cross they only raised It higher.

Ever triumphant, the risen Lord today moves on.

Following in His steps, Paul pitied the Philippian slave girl; men said she was "possessed with a spirit;" today, you would probably call her a degenerate.

Her owners, men, made money by her weakness.

Paul cured her. No longer would her infirmity support able-bodied men. These, her masters, rebelled. They threw the city into an uproar with their cries. They said—

"These men trouble our city."

Their loss of dirty money doubtless did seem to them a civic catastrophe. Honest men knew otherwise. And men have not changed.

ATLANTA'S MORAL DOWNFALL HAS COME IN THE MIND OF THE PIMP, THE PANDERER, THE WHITE SLAVER AND THE LANDLORDS OF FALLEN WOMEN, SINCE THERE IS NO LONGER A POLICE-PROTECTED PLACE WHERE THEY CAN PREY UPON WEAK WOMEN.

"The hope of their gain" has gone; hence, the clamor.

So loud was it in Chicago that her city council appointed nine of its members a committee to consider reopening their recently closed red light district.

To this committee Attorney General Cosson, of Iowa, said:

"A segregated district—a corrupted police force.

"A segregated district is inseparably connected with murder, rapine, lust, and robbery."

Father O'Callaghan, protesting against segregation, said:

"I do not want to call any city official 'His honor the Chief Panderer of the city.'"

Rabbi Hirsh, adding his voice, said:

"Every man before he enters—should think of how he would feel if his own sister or his own cousin were to be held in such thraldom and slavery as these poor sisters of ours are held."

Jacob A. Riis wrote: "FIGHT IT TO A FINISH THE ONLY WAY."

Graham Taylor, reviewing the situation in The Survey, says:

"There has been a surprising rally of public sympathy against restoring the suppressed disorderly resorts in the former segregated districts.

"All of the great dailies have already pronounced against it."

And Chicago, like Minneapolis, refused to stultify itself by compromise with crime.

Therefore, remember: "When her masters saw that the hope of their gains was gone" they caused a riot in Philippi.

Similar tricks will not succeed in Atlanta. You are on your guard.

SOCIETY

Lyle-Harper Wedding
Beautiful Social Event

The marriage of Miss Anne Lyle and Mr. Marion Harper was an event of social interest and picturesque in beauty, taking place last night at 8:30, at St. Mark Methodist church, a large congregation of friends witnessed the ceremony, which was performed by Bishop W. A. Candler, assisted by Dr. Hughlett.

Miss Martha Francis was maid of honor; Mr. Claud Douthit was best man, and little Misses Margaret Wade and Mary Sue Prem, preceded the bride into the church, scattered rose petals in her path from their Marie Antoinette baskets.

Messrs Mitchell King, William Schroeder, Henry Kennedy and Julius Fenning were the ushers, and Mrs. Thos. E. Iowerman, Jr., of Birmingham, a friend of the bride, played the wedding music at the organ.

The background for the bridal group was a luxurious massing of palms, in the midst of which were large white hydrangeas, and at each side were tall white vases of Easter lilies.

The bride, entering the church with her brother, Mr. E. C. Lyle, was beautiful in her wedding gown of white charmeuse satin, and a veil of princess lace draped from a cap of the lace framed the charming face. The gown was draped with princess lace and embroidered in pearls, and the draperies were caught with orange blossoms. The bridal bouquet was of orchids and valley lilies.

The maid of honor wore pink brocade charmeuse, trimmed with lace and brilliants, and her flowers were pink roses and valley lilies. The flower girls wore lace dresses with pink sashes.

Mrs. E. C. Lyle wore white charmeuse and rose-print lace. Mrs. J. R. Lyle, of Macon, wore yellow crepe meteor and princess lace. Mrs. C. B. Lyle, of Jonesboro, wore white crepe meteor and pearl embroidery. Mrs. W. J. Nalley, the bride's sister, wore pink charmeuse.

A small reception was held at 9 o'clock at the home of Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Lyle, on West Peachtree street, the guests including only the family party and a few close friends.

There the decorations were in pink and white flowers, against a profusion of foliage plants with smilax overhead. Sweet peas and roses filled the reception rooms, with their fragrance and beauty, and sweet peas and feverfew were used with effect in the dining room. A buffet supper was served, and the music of an orchestra was an enjoyable feature.

Presiding at the punch bowls were Mrs. Julian Prade, Mrs. E. T. Wade, Mrs. R. K. Rambo and Mrs. Geo. Westmoreland.

Mr. and Mrs. Harper left at once for the east to sail this week for a three-months' tour abroad.

Mrs. Harper is a young woman who possesses the force of a distinctive personality, as well as social grace and charm, and she has become delightfully known in the social life during her brief residence in Atlanta. Mr. Harper is prominent in the business and the social world, president of the Marion Harper Cotton Oil company and a popular member of the clubs.

WHITE-YOW.

Athens, Ga., June 18.—(Special.)—The marriage of Miss Sarah Frances White and Mr. Morris Yow, of Toccoa, was solemnized this evening at the lovely country home of the bride's parents, Captain and Mrs. John R. White, at Whitehall, in the presence of a brilliant assemblage of prominent society people of the state and quite a number from other sections of the south. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Dr. E. L. Hill, of the First Presbyterian church. The bride was attended by Mrs. Hugh White, her sister-in-law and by her cousin, Mrs. William Bradshaw, of Paducah, Ky., as matron of honor.

The bridesmaids were Miss Lil Hodgen, Miss Margaret Thomas, Miss Minnie Thomas and Miss Lil Paine. The groom was attended by his brother, Dr. Jones Yow, of Lavonia, as best man. The groomsmen were Mr. Robert White, Mr. John Welch, Mr. Jesse Draper, of Atlanta, and Mr. Hall Miller, of Atlanta. The ribbon-bearers were little Misses Louise Morton and Margaret Virginia Morton.

The young bride was queenly in her bridal gown of brocade chiffon, made court train, the edges outlined with real lace ruching. The corsage was festooned with rich lace and seed pearls. The soft tulle veil was adjusted to the Juliet cap of rose point lace, with a wreath of orange blossoms. She carried a bouquet of orchids, showered with valley lilies. Her only jewel was a diamond necklace, the gift of the groom.

The matrons of honor wore white chiffon with overdress of lace, carrying bouquets of pink roses and valley lilies. The maids wore white lace with flowers of pink and white. The pretty little ribbon-bearers wore exquisite lingerie frocks with pink ribbons and carried old-fashioned nosegays of pink rosebuds. Miss Kathryn Horton and Miss Rachel Raymer, of Savannah, and Misses Cora and Kathryn Paine served punch to the guests.

After the wedding ceremony an elaborate supper was served and Mr. and Mrs. Yow left on the midnight train north, their destination immediately being left a secret from all but the family. They will be away, however, all summer and when they return will be at home to their friends in Athens.

Southern Society at Tate.

The summer season at Tate Spring had brilliant inauguration in the opening ball last Saturday night, when there was present more than the usually large aggregation of southern belles while Knoxville was represented by a big proportion of the membership of her town and country clubs, and there were other dancers from as far east as New York.

Miss Briscoe, of Knoxville; Miss Josephine Hallyburton and Miss Dorothy Aiken, of New York; Miss Fannie Hill, of Knoxville; Miss Lockett, of Knoxville, are some of the names of visitors at Tate which are pleasantly familiar, and the golf tourneys already started are assembling adepts and extreme amateurs from every part of the south.

Miss Crenshaw's Reception.

Miss Caroline Crenshaw, who has been studying with Hadley Burke in New York for two years, will return home late in June, and her first concert appearance will be awaited with much interest.

Her beautiful voice and her very intelligent handling of it inspired the most favorable criticism after her return from England several years ago, and the farther development of her voice and her art as the result of her work for the past two years in New York will be a matter of general musical interest.

Her father, Dr. William Crenshaw, will go to New York next week to accompany her home.

Hughes-Osborne.

The wedding of Miss Mary Annie Hughes and Mr. Ernest Lawton Osborne, of Augusta, was a pretty event of last evening, taking place at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. John Franklin Hughes, on West Peachtree place.

The ceremony took place at 9 o'clock in the drawing room, where the bridal party was grouped before an altar of palms and ferns studded with magnolias and feverfew. The mantel was banked with greenery and in the other apartments quantities of sweet peas with smilax, palms and ferns formed the decorations.

The bride was charming in her wedding gown of white crepe de chine trimmed in chantilly lace and seed pearls. Her tulle veil was caught with orange blossoms and she carried a shower bouquet of bride roses and valley lilies. She was attended by Miss Ollie Mae Osborne, maid of honor, who wore a gown of pink satin brocade. Miss Jessie Thompson and Miss Julia Osborne, of Augusta, were bridesmaids and both wore green chiffon gowns of veiling white satin.

The matron of honor and bridesmaids carried pink roses. Misses Ruth Hughes and Elizabeth Snow, wearing dainty lingerie gowns, were ribbon-bearers and little Miss Kate Thompson was ring-bearer. Mr. Robert Quinn was Mr. Osborne's best man and Dr. DuBose was the officiating minister. The wedding music was played by Miss Wilkes and Mrs. Kuhrt Mueller.

About one hundred guests were entertained at the reception following the ceremony. The bride's mother received wearing a gown of white embroidered crepe. Misses Lillian Downing and Mary Thompson presided at the punch bowl on the front porch.

After a wedding trip to the mountains of North Carolina Mr. and Mrs. Osborne will be at home in Augusta.

The bride's going-away gown was of dark blue cloth with hat to match.

Curry-Wilson.

Mrs. Leon Horace Walker announces the marriage of her cousin, Miss Colleen Euphemia Curry, of Key West, Fla., to Mr. Arthur Harrington Wilson, of San Angelo, Texas, on Friday evening, June 13, 1913, at the Church of the Incarnation, Rev. The bride was charming in her travelling suit of blue and hat to match, and carried a bouquet of Jacqueminot roses.

The wedding was a very quiet one, witnessed only by a few friends of the bride and groom. The church was decorated with palms and daisies, and appropriate music was played by Mrs. John R. Springer, at the organ. After receiving congratulations, the bride and broom left by motor for a few days' tour through northern Georgia. The bride is a great social favorite, both in her home and in the east. Mr. Wilson is a son of Dr. James H. Wilson, who is widely known throughout Texas. Arguments Are Completed.

Macon, Ga., June 18.—(Special.)—The arguments in the injunction suit against the Georgia Life Insurance company, brought by three or four minor stockholders to prevent the company from reducing its capitol stock to $300,000 and changing the name to the "Georgia Casualty company," were completed this afternoon. Judge Mathews has taken the matter under advisement. The company is asking $50,000 damages from the petitioning stockholders because of the damage they are alleged to have done to the business of the company.

SOCIETY OUT IN FORCE AT SHAW AUCTION SALE

At the auction sale, by order of the supreme court, of the antique mahogany and teakwood furniture, a part of the Shaw estate, held Wednesday morning, in the show rooms of the Packard Motor company, the leaders in Atlanta society turned out and did some lively bidding.

Among interesting articles sold were a totem pole from Alaska, said to be more than 2,000 years old; an old hand-carved sideboard brought over from Holland in the seventeenth century, and a number of beautifully carved pieces of furniture from the Orient.

The sale was under the supervision of Henry A. Newman, receiver for the Shaw estate. B. Bernard was the auctioneer.

"STAY-AT-HOMES" WILL ENTERTAIN OLD GUARD

The members of the Old Guard who did not take the recent trip of the organization through the east will "do themselves proud" next Saturday night, when they entertain the members who did make the trip at an informal dinner at Cafe Durand.

This will be more or less of an "experience meetin'," and, incidentally, all agents necessary to producing talk will be on hand. The dinner will be given for the purpose of allowing all, both those who went and those who stayed at home, to say all they have to say, and it is announced that the meeting will not adjourn until this object has been accomplished. The invitations state that "a right smart vittuals will be provided."

In the toastmaster's chair will be Colonel George M. Napier. Among the guests will be Governor Brown, Governor-elect John M. Slaton and the officers of the brigade headquarters in Atlanta. The guests are expected to wear fatigue uniforms and caps, without side arms.

CANDLER SCORES CARNEGIE'S GIFT

Characterizes Magnate as "Agnostic Steel Monger," Striving to "Denature Vanderbilt Medical School."

Following the offer of Andrew Carnegie to donate $1,000,000 to Vanderbilt university for the establishment of a medical school and the acceptance of this substantial donation by the board of trust, Bishop Candler has issued a statement in which he declares that the board acted with "unconsiderate haste," and characterizes Mr. Carnegie as an "aggressive and agnostic steel monger," who, in making the gift, is not impelled by philanthropic motives, but is "proposing at one blow to destroy the medical school of the Episcopalians and denature the medical school of the Methodists and raise on the ruins of both a Carnegieized establishment in his own image and likeness."

This caustic attack from Bishop Candler is provoked principally by the tenor of Mr. Carnegie's letter offering the money, which reads as follows:

Carnegie's Letter.

"I do not believe that it is wise for any sect to endow educational institutions such as universities, whether the organization be a Methodist conference, or a Presbyterian assembly, or a Catholic order.

"For this reason, therefore, while I am anxious to make this gift, which would be of high value to the whole south, I hesitate to do so until the question of denominational control has been settled by the courts.

"I make the following proposition for your consideration: I will furnish the $1,000,000 claim now awarded for the laboratories, and the remaining $800,000 shall remain in the custody of the Carnegie corporation in New York—interest on which shall be paid to the university for the use of the medical school until such time as the question of denominational control has been settled by the court of last resort, its final disposition to be then determined. Should this proposition be satisfactory to the board of trustees, I understand that the conditions agreed to in your letter of May 1, as to the site and co-operating with the governing board of the medical school and the character of the school itself are also conditions of this gift.

"The objection to denominational control of colleges and universities is not due to lack of sympathy with religion. It lies in the fact that such control by a single denomination rarely means religious development, but nearly always means that both education and religion are subordinated to the interests of the particular organization which is in control."

In reply to this proposal Bishop Candler says:

Bishop Candler's Answer.

"Now the dullest mind can see that Mr. Carnegie does not propose to put a penny to the Vanderbilt university, but to take something from it, to dismember from it one of its departments, which is about $500,000.

"By the same process he may proceed to alienate all the other departments and put them under his little boardlets. It is strange that more of the members of the board of trust did not perceive this patent fact, and protest against the acceptance of his offer. It would be just as appropriate for the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals to accept for its uses the gate receipts of a bull fight as for this gift to be accepted by a Christian institution.

"It is apparent also that the Episcopalians see in this affair an effort to defeat the proposed medical department of the University of the South. If they are correct in their opinion, Mr. Carnegie is proposing at one blow to destroy the medical school of the Episcopalians, and denature the medical school of the Methodists, and raise on the ruins of both a Carnegieized establishment in his own image and likeness.

"I cannot doubt that this impudent proposal of the aggressive and agnostic steel monger will provoke the indignation of the Christian people of all denominations in the country, and incur the emphatic disapproval of all thinking men," says Bishop Candler. "This undisguised attempt to disinte*grate a Christian university* is in keeping with the well fixed purpose of antagonism to church schools which Mr. Carnegie has pursued for a long time.

What Will Bishops Do?

To the question what will the bishops of the Methodist church do in the case? Bishop Candler replied:

"The bishops are common-law visitors to the university, and citation of the trustees to a meeting of the visitors at the bishops' room in Nashville next Friday has been issued. I have no right to anticipate their decision, and I have as little doubt about what it will be. The attempt to make it appear by a telegram sent from Nashville that Bishop Hoss only is concerning himself about the matter is as unjust to his colleagues as it is unfair to him. Bishop Hoss has done his duty, and he has had opportunities beyond most of the other bishops of rendering good service to the church in the case. But the attempt to make it appear that he is standing alone is utterly without foundation in fact. This effort to isolate Bishop Hoss from his colleagues before the public eye is sinister and unworthy, and does even the virtue of Carnegie's candor."

Bishop Hoss Protests.

Nashville, Tenn., June 18.—Bishop E. E. Hoss, who will attend the meeting Friday, of the College of Bishops of the Southern Methodist church, to take action on the protest of four members of the Vanderbilt university board of trust relative to accepting Andrew Carnegie's gift to the medical department of a million dollars, today published the protest. The four trustees question the board's right to accept the conditions attached; question the fairness of the proposition toward Carnegie, with suit pending contesting the rights of the board of trust and allege that this is, in fact, giving away a department of the university. Bishop Hoss, in a statement, specifies two serious objections:

(1) The university does not get a dollar but gives away its medical department to a new governing board without restrictions.

(2) Mr. Carnegie makes no promise to give the $800,000 as endowment unless the trustees succeed in eliminating the church.

LUNCHEON AT MAJESTIC TO BOOST CORN SHOW

Speakers Declare Increase of Food Production in Georgia Must Be Encouraged.

The urgent necessity of pushing and extending the boys' corn club work, as the solution of dangerous economic conditions in Georgia, was discussed at the chamber of commerce luncheon in the Majestic hotel yesterday. Wilmer L. Moore presided, and forty or more leading Atlanta business men were gathered around the table.

It was generally admitted that the boys' corn club movement was the greatest single influence in the right direction, and that the first and most practical way of meeting the situation would be to make the 1913 corn club contests and Georgia corn show the largest ever held. To that end committees will be appointed today, and an active campaign will be carried on to arouse interest and gain support.

Mr. Moore Heads Drive.

Mr. Moore introduced William H. Mansa, of Baltimore, vice president and general manager of the Southern Settlement and Development organization. Mr. Mansa was present as the guest of Robert F. Maddox. He said that the corn crisis was the most effective means within his knowledge for teaching crop diversification, soil development and soil fertility, and declared that Georgia could be made the center of the greatest corn growing belt in America.

"You have possibilities here which we, of the northwest, never dreamed of," he declared. He said that instead of importing $170,000,000 worth of food products annually, Georgia ought to make enough for her own consumption and export great quantities, and that without diminishing the cotton crop.

Abused Cotton, Not Used It.

H. G. Hastings was the next speaker. He said that the present economic conditions in Georgia were wrong and dangerous; that it was an established fact that no "one-crop" section could be permanently prosperous. Mr. Hastings was applauded when he stated that 142 out of 147 counties had already been organized for corn club work this year, and that over 10,000 boys were enrolled in the work.

J. T. Holleman's speech was a thoughtful analysis of present agricultural conditions in Georgia. Among other things, he said Georgia farmers seemed to have lost the knack of raising food products and animals, and that the condition was made more serious by the purchase of cattle by the thousand for shipment to western pastures where they are fattened for market; this was like taking seed corn from the state.

"What are we going to do about it?" said Walter G. Cooper.

"That question is never asked in vain of men like this. The corn clubs have already proven effective. Last year they made boys to raise an average of sixty bushels an acre, where their daddies had been raising fifteen bushels on the same land."

Mr. Cooper suggested that committees would be appointed at once to arouse an active interest in the 1913 corn show.

ANSLEY PARK ANNEX AUCTION SALE TODAY

Twenty-Five Lots Will Be Disposed Of by Well-Known Agency.

One of the most interesting real estate auction sales that has been scheduled in Atlanta for several years is the sale by the Edwin P. Ansley agency of 25 lots in Ansley Park annex this afternoon at 3:30 o'clock.

Ansley Park adjoins the well known Ansley Park subdivision on the north. For several months Mr. Ansley has had a big gang of workmen under his personal subdivision grading the annex and making an up-to-date residence section of it.

In the words of Ed Ansley:

"The annex is a continuation of the old park. Its history will be a repetition of the first. Why not? Built by the same man, on the same lines, in the same direction, for the same class of people."

This is the last word about the annex, for the reputation of the high-class residence section into which Ansley Park has developed is history—and history of which Atlanta is proud.

The lots to be sold this afternoon are only the shaded lots. They will go at 10 per cent cash and the balance in monthly payments of $25.

In the advertising campaign which Ed Ansley has been conducting to market these lots, his broad-minded and unselfish boosting spirit has been such a feature as to amount to scarcely less than a sensation. Ed Ansley is primarily a booster, and a real estate man for the money that's in it second only.

GUARANTEE TRUST PLAINTIFFS WIN

Judge Pendleton Decides Under Evidence Appointment of Receiver Should Be Ordered by Court.

One of the longest and most spirited legal fights ever conducted in the history of Fulton superior court, the case of Matthew Delaney et al. v. the Guarantee Trust and Banking company, terminated on yesterday in a victory for the plaintiffs, when Judge John T. Pendleton decided that the evidence in the case the appointment of a receiver should be ordered by the court.

The trial of the case was entered into on May 5, the plaintiffs charging that the defendant company was insolvent, as the result of fraud and mismanagement, and the company contending that it was amply solvent and able to meet all outstanding obligations of every nature.

The petitioning plaintiffs were represented in the litigation by Messrs. Charlee T. & L. C. Hopkins, Smith & Hastings, Hughes & Foster, Lamar Hill and Dorsey, Brewster, Howell & Heyman, while the defendant company was represented by Rosser & Brandon, Tye, Peeples & Jordan and Napier, Wright & Wood.

Ask for Books.

The first aggressive step taken by counsel for the plaintiffs, after filing their petition in court, was to serve the defendant with a notice to produce all of its books, records and accounts and to cause the testimony of the president, secretary and chief bookkeeper of the company to be taken under oath before a commissioner at the instance of the plaintiffs, the stenographer's transcript of the testimony, which was produced into court, covering more than six hundred pages of closely typewritten evidence.

Pending the hearing of the evidence before Judge Pendleton a spirited controversy arose over the figures shown by the books and records of the company and upon the motion of plaintiffs' counsel the court appointed C. J. Metz as auditor to examine the records of the company and report his findings to the court within two weeks.

As the result of the report filed by the auditor plaintiffs' counsel contended that every allegation of their petition had been sustained and that the business of the former Guarantee Redemption company had, at a time that company was insolvent, been sold to the Guarantee Trust and Banking company for a bonus of $250,000, the greater part of which sum was paid to Sam E. Smith and H. S. Miles, president and secretary respectively, of the Guarantee Trust and Banking company.

Legal Trust Violated.

Plaintiffs' counsel contended that the legal trust that the new company by the terms of its contracts and by the provisions of the laws of Georgia had been flagrantly violated by the officers of the company, who had squandered its assets in speculative investments and in loans to the officers, directors, agents and employees of the company and their families, with the result that the company was hopelessly insolvent.

The opening argument for the plaintiffs was ably presented by Charles T. Hopkins, and eloquent appeals in behalf of the company were delivered by Luther Rosser, Henry C. Peeples and George M. Napier, the concluding argument for the petitioning plaintiffs being delivered by Charlee T. Hopkins, on the conclusion of whose argument Judge Pendleton delivered his decision, sustaining the contentions of the plaintiffs and ordering the appoint*ment of a receiver.*

The decision of Judge Pendleton declared that, under the evidence, the officers of the company had been guilty of violating the trust relations imposed by its contracts and by the laws of Georgia, and that the company was unable to meet the measure of solvency fixed by the statutes of the state and was insolvent.

Counsel for the defendant company gave notice of their intention to appeal the decision to the supreme court of Georgia, and Judge Pendleton requested counsel to confer and endeavor to agree upon the terms of the restraining order of supersedeas pending the appeal, in the meantime directing the company to make no change in the status of its condition.

Dies of Hydrophobia.

Valdosta, Ga., June 18.—(Special.)—Prompt administration of the Pasteur treatment failed to save the life of Sonny boy Jackson, a young negro, who was bitten by a dog in this city four weeks ago. The lad developed hydrophobia three weeks after he was bitten, and died in agony yesterday. The young son of A. Gallivesky, a Jewish merchant, who was bitten at the same time by the dog which attacked the negro, has so far shown no symptoms of hydrophobia, and it is believed that the treatment was successful in his case.

LONG STRIDE TAKEN TOWARD PURER MILK

Atlanta Dairymen's Association Practically Accepts Proposed Rules of Medical Society.

A good, long stride toward purer milk for Atlanta was taken yesterday when the Atlanta Dairymen's association met at the auditorium and practically agreed upon the acceptance of the rules laid down by the milk commission of the Fulton County Medical society for the purification of milk placed upon the Atlanta market, or creating a standard of purity for this milk to be known as "certified milk."

The fulfilling of the rules of the milk commission is not to be incumbent upon the dairymen by law, but is to be entered into by them voluntarily in a "contract of honor" with the milk commission, wherein the commission guarantees to place its brand of approval upon the milk of such dairymen as comply with their suggestions.

Sanitary Methods.

The rules submitted by Dr. L. B. Clarke, secretary of the milk commission, Wednesday were suggestions as to sanitary methods of the production and marketing of milk.

Except for the minor detail of two deliveries per day instead of one during the summer months, these rules met with the approval of the dairymen.

It is conceded by both the milk commission and the dairymen, however, that little progress toward the protection of the public health from germs in milk can be made without the cooperation of the public itself. To the encouragement of this end, the dairy*men will have cards printed with brief* instruction as to the care of milk kept in the homes, and circulated among their customers. Meanwhile, the milk commission will carry on this work by circulars, lectures and newspaper publicity.

Two Bills to Legislature.

Two bills will probably go before the next legislature as a result of Wednesday's dairymen's meeting.

One of these will be for the passage of a law legalizing "certified milk." This law does not consider the matter of enforcing the rules laid down by the milk commission, but is designed merely to place the state's official approval upon milk produced and marketed under these rules.

A second matter which will be brought to the attention of the legislature, through the legislative committee of the dairymen's organization, is a measure looking to the reimbursement of such dairymen as may lose cows by condemnation on the part of the state for tuberculosis.

City Council Enjoined.

Macon, Ga., June 18.—(Special.)—Judge Mathews in the superior court today enjoined the city council from interfering with Patrick Cronin in the operation of his near-beer saloon, until a hearing can be held on July 4.

Cronin was convicted in the city court about ten days ago of violating the state prohibition law and council immediately revoked his license. Last night his attorney, John R. Cooper, asked council to rescind action until the court of appeals passed on the case, but council refused and today Mr. Cooper applied for an obtained the injunction. Attorney Cooper is to test the validity of the ordinance which gives council the power to revoke a near-beer dealer's license and there is considerable interest here in the outcome.

Hill Says All Is Well.

OTTAWA, ONT., June 17.—James J. Hill, who is attending the conven- tion of the New York State Bankers' Association here, has taken keen in- terest in recent Wall Street develop- ments. Speaking of the general fi- nancial situation, he said to a corre- spondent:

"What is the matter with Wall Street anyway? Are they going crazy there? Every one is as blue as indigo, and half the people do not know what they are blue about. All that people have to do in times like these is keep a clear head and avoid getting rattled; then everything will come out all right.

Money Hard to Get.

"Yes, I know money is hard to get. I allided some time ago to the diffi- culty the railroads were experiencing in obtaining loans at a time when time-money rates were apparently easy. Selling short-term note issues is apt to occasion inconvenience when the notes happen to mature in a dis- agreeable money market. But the railroads have probably done the best they could do in a situation where it has been difficult to sell bonds even in cases where the borrowing road has had the security to offer.

"The money market is a good deal of a problem, but it will work out all right.

"Why, those nervous fellows in Wall Street, who get worked up because money rates are going up or because the stock market is going down, ought to realize the United States will de- rive ten billion dollars new wealth out of the ground this year, or a sum which exceeds the world's gold pro- duction for ten years.

"I want to say, too, that the Wash- ington situation is all right. To hear some people talk, you would suppose that the Administration was bent up- on upsetting things. That is arrant foolishness."

PROSPERITY IN SOUTH HERE TO STAY

Two Great Railroads Show Immense Earning Increase Over Last Year.

Striking confirmation of the truth of the reports about the solidity of the financial situation of the South is fur- nished to-day in the following dis- patch to The Georgian:

LOUISVILLE, June 17.—That the South is enjoying a period of great prosperity is indicated by the earnings of her railroad sys- tems. The report of the Louis- ville and Nashville Railroad shows that the gross earnings for the fiscal year, which ends July 1, will show an increase of more than $3,000,000 over the same period last year.

The statement of the Southern Railway, whose fiscal year ends July 1, shows that the gross earn- ings to 6th inst. week in June have been $54,439,407, an increase of the same period last year of $4,- 589,377.

This makes it certain that, for the current fiscal year, these two great railroad systems of the South will show increases in earnings over last year that will exceed $7,000,000.

Also, James J. Hill, the empire builder, declares in an interview in The Georgian to-day that the pessim- ism of Wall Street is not well found- ed, and he points out that the United States will derive $10,000,000,000 of new wealth out of the ground this year, or a sum to exceed the world's gold production for ten years.

The Georgian during the past week published interviews with many busi- ness men of Atlanta, and on Sunday The Sunday American published an elaborate interview with Asa Can- dler, in which they all declared that the financial situation in the South is strong, and they warned against the pessimistic writers of Wall Street.

Atlanta, Ga., June 17th, 1913.

Mr. Edwin P. Ansley, Realty Trust Building, Atlanta, Ga.

Dear Mr. Ansley:--I have just read your advertisement in today's "Georgian," entitled "Harvests Are Good and There Will Be Plenty of Gold," and I wish to congratulate you for expressing the thought of all conservative business men in the South.

Forbes represents that spirit of unrest which is prevalent throughout the nation, and which must be suppressed.

While you have used Mr. Forbes as a text for a good advertisement for yourself, every Southern business man should thank you for the stand you have taken.

Cotton, that great product of the South, represents forty-seven per cent of the total exports of this country, and in 1913 history will repeat itself when this crop will prevent any financial crisis.

Yours very truly,

W. S. LOUNSBURY.

I have always believed in Atlanta, her growth, her prosperity and her future, and when I read the opinion of such men as published above, I am confident that I am right.

Edwin P. Ansley

The Crac ers came from behind, taking the lead, were overhauled, grabbed the lead again and then a bad error permitted the tying run in the ninth. Darkness ended the pastime.

Long Wallops Feature Draw Contest

WHIFFS

Big Day Today.

ATLANTA will today be presented with the handsome silver trophy won on the opening game of the season when the local fans paid their way into the park at Ponce de Leon in larger numbers than in any other city in the league. The presentation will be made by Judge William M. Kavanaugh, president of the Southern league, who will make his first visit to Atlanta in some time.

Attendance Mark.

ATLANTA won this trophy under any but bright circumstances. The weather being cold and rain on that date. But it behooves local fans to go out in large numbers to the game today. There is a double contest at stake. The Barons must be beaten again. At their pennant raising day they showed 2,207 paid admissions. The Crackers must beat this today or Nashville will have a lot of fun at the expense of the Gate City of the south. If you are planning on attending a game in this Birmingham series, make today the day.

Are Slipping.

THE GULLS are showing signs of slipping. Including the double-header with the Montgomery Billikins on Tuesday, of the last twelve games played the Gulls have dropped eight of them. At this rate of slipping it will not be long before Chattanooga, Atlanta and Montgomery will catch them at the rate these "Big Three" clubs are now travelling. At that the Gulls have been lucky that they have been in the lead as long as they have. But they proved our contention, that first four innings are in the main a matter of mind. They believed they could win, they became possessed of this conviction and this confidence brought them out in front in many a hard fought battle.

Another Race.

THE PENNANT race is not all that given promise of being. It is a hectic scrap to the wire. The race for the batting leadership is a keen one, with Tommy Long setting the pace at the present writing. Fletcher Robertson, the runnerup and Kid Elberfeld right behind him. Sloan, of Montgomery, Welchonce, of Atlanta, Knisely, of Birmingham, and Smith, of Atlanta, are all within easy striking distance of the lead. These seven men give promise of batting it out along these lines all summer.

Are Strengthening.

THE VOLS and the Lookouts are still strengthening. The former have added a pitcher to their staff, Rod Nelson, former Philly and Cardinal, having just been signed. He will probably take the place of Ted Knight, who the Chattanooga has just taken on Fitzgerald, a catcher of experience, to assist Gabby Street in his arduous duties.

Good Cause.

PRESS dispatches state that Hughey Jennings has become so worried over the poor showing of the Tigers that he is near a nervous breakdown. The playing of the Tigers has been enough to make any manager worry. But Jennings ought to smile and think of Frank Chance. The peerless leader is the man who should worry.

After Teammate.

DAN MOELLER, the Washington speed merchant is the one who is going to worry Zeb Milan. He is after the race for the stolen base honors in the American league. Moeller's shoulder has mended completely and the speedy outfielder is giving his teammate a close run every day now. The battle between these two is going to be a keen one, and the team is going to be benefitted in their race, as both men will take long chances on the sacred Pecklerinos on the bases proves successful many a time.

Don't Do It.

CONNIE MACK, the sage of Quakertown, has slipped a quiet little tip to Brooklyn fandom. Stated over the showing of their team, the Bridegroom fans are about to buy Jake Daubert an automobile. Connie's tip is to wait until the end of the season. "Three many autos wrecked the Athletics in 1912," is his caustic comment. Connie ought to know.

A Lawyer Now.

COACH CUNNINGHAM, of the University of Georgia, is now a full-fledged lawyer. The former Commodore football mentor received the degree of bachelor of laws at the commencement Wednesday, receiving his diploma. He will finish out his course by attendance at the Columbia university summer school.

Off on Jaunt.

IF THE CRACKERS can make a clean sweep of the Birmingham series which begins today, they will be well fortified for their second jaunt around the circuit, which starts with the game Sunday in New Orleans. The locals ought to make a better showing this time, for they are imbued with the winning idea and they will be harder to down this trip.

See-Saw Game Ends in a Tie; Home Runs Feature Contest; Dent Should Have Won

By Dick Jemison.

The Allbis and the Crackers went to the mat for the third time Wednesday afternoon, and when the umps called it at the end of the ninth inning on account of darkness the count stood three all.

Delayed thirty minutes in starting by the eight thunderstorm that broke over the city, extra innings were out of the question, it being after 6 o'clock when the ninth session was completed. Had it been closer the team could have continued to play, but in the cloudy, mucky twilight activities were properly suspended when they were.

The teams played alternately good ball and bad ball. Every variety of the great national pastime was crowded into the nine sessions, though on merit alone the Crackers ought to have gone through with the victory.

Dent Twirled Well.

Elliott Dent twirled for the Crackers, and, though touched up for nine tingles, he kept seven of them so wide-ly scattered that only one resulted and that a Vol reached the keystone. The other two were circuit smashes, one of them the luckiest that has ever been pulled off in the history of baseball.

The big fellow was cool throughout the battle, and hurled an article of ball that, with his usual control of every ten that he twirls. Schwartz-torseshoe was all in the world that brought home a tie game for his club. Kid Williams, the Vols' sensational southpaw, twirled the brand of ball that has made him so feared for seven innings. During that first four innings the Crackers were unable to get a man to first base. In the fifth he walked two men. And in the sixth he allowed his first hit. In the seventh he was pounded hard, while he was routed in the eighth.

Brackenridge finished the eighth, marking way for a pinch hitter in the ninth, and Fleharty twirled the last stanza.

Home Runs Figure.

Home runs scored two of the three runs that each side made. The Crackers counted their third on clean hitting, while the Vols made theirs on an error.

Poor coaching on the third base line in the eighth, coupled with a great throw to the plate by Callahan, made it possible for the Vols to tie up the game in the ninth. Bailey ought to have been held on third base. Cal was not very deep when he picked up the throw, and he's got one of the best arms in this league.

A peculiar incident was noted during the game. Of the first nine men to face him, six of them went out to the catcher either on strike-outs or on fouls.

Although the Vols got hits startling the first four innings, plays to the advanced base always forced the batter and not a man reached the keystone though five hits were registered.

The Vols' first run was a fluke. In the fifth, Goalby smashed a low liner just over third. Long set himself to take the ball on the first bounce. It struck Long in front of him, took a wild bound and went fifteen feet over his head for a clean home run.

With Williams going the way he was, it looked like a victory for the Vols, but the Crackers had not been properly riled and the lucky seventh had not arrived.

Smith and Bisland.

With one gone in this session, Wallop Smith poled a long, high liner between Daley and Callahan for three cushions. This wallop was the longest ball hit on the fly ever poled at Ponce de Leon park. It was a clean drive in the tall grass in deep left center. Daley was chasing so deep for Smith that when the ball struck he pounced on it and threw it back to the fence, then an easy home run he had been playing his natural left field.

Bill Lindsay and Bisland remembering the day before, Bisland picked out the first ball pitched and lined it over Callahan's head to deep center field. The ball rolling up the centerfield bank running home easily. This put the Crackers one to the good.

Callahan's home run, tying up the old pastime again in the eighth, the clout going between Long and Welchonce.

The Crackers took the lead again in their half. Welchonce singled sharply to center and Alpermann sent him down to second on neat sacrifice. Bailey singled to short left and Welchonce was held on third.

Wallop Hits, Then Errors.

Wallop Smith cracked one down the first base line that handcuffed Bill Schwartz, and Welchonce counted. Bisland's fine throw to the plate by Daley, one to center, but Bailey was foolishly run on in home and Callahan's fine peg got him easily.

Scott was the last in the ninth. Lindsay got a free ticket and was sacrificed down by Goalby. Gibson hit to Smith, which made a great pick up, but Lindsay worried him starting towards third and he hurried the play, throwing over Agler's head. Lindsay counted.

The Crackers, made a bid in their half of the ninth on one. Robe batted for Dent and drew a free ticket. Price was put in to run for him and Long singled to left. Welchonce forced Long at second, then struck out.

With Alpermann up, the Crackers chances looked fine, but Gibson made a great running catch up against the stand of a foul, falling in the ground ball, but clinging on to the ball.

Memphis, Tenn., June 18.—New Orleans and Memphis played seven innings to a two to two tie today, and the three-game series ended with honors even, each team with a victory to its credit. Today's game was called by agreement to allow the New Orleans team to catch a train.

Williams, who distinguished himself by driving out three hits, one for two bases, out of three times at bat, brought in both of the visitors' runs. Schweitzer, sent in as a pinch hitter in the last inning, scored Shanley with a clean hit that severed the score. Both Brenton and Parsons pitched good ball.

Birmingham, June 18.—Kroh pitched air-tight ball against Birmingham, but an error by Elberfeld allowed the game to be tied in the ninth and poor fielding gave Birmingham the game in the tenth, 2 to 1. Prough pitching strongly in the pinches, won his fourth straight victory. Sensational catches by Messenger and Elberfeld featured the fiercely fought contest.

MAY REACH FINALS IN SINGLES TODAY

Play Is Progressing Rapidly in the Georgia State Tennis Championship at Piedmont Driving Club.

By Hal Reynolds.

After one more day of play the singles and doubles in the Georgia state tennis championships are rapidly nearing the finals, in which practically the same men who have struggled in previous years for the title will meet again.

The rain during the afternoon stopped play for about an hour, but after it was over the courts were in better condition than before, and the matches were continued.

Perhaps the biggest surprise of the day was dished out when in the doubles Grant and Thornton disposed of Orr and Ramspeck in rather easy fashion 6-1, 6-2.

Although Grant and Thornton were conceded a slight edge in the match no one thought that they would have such an easy time, as only the day before, in a practice match, the score was 4-4 in games when they stopped.

Thornton in Form.

Thornton played in old-time form in this match, his volley strokes and cross-court shots being especially affective. Orr also did some pretty work in driving and placing his shots.

In the singles Williams sprang a surprise by forcing Carlton Smith into a deuce set before he finally won out over him, 7-5. The next set proved a trifle easier. Smith defeating his opponent 6-2.

In one of the closest matches of the tournament H. Gulli defeated A. W. Smith 8-6; 7-6-4. Hall put up several pretty plays throughout the match, and had his serve working in especially fine shape.

The following are the results of yesterday's play:

MEN'S SINGLES.

Second Round.

A. W. Smith defeated Tom Wilson 6-3; 6-2.

H. Hall defeated Sam Williams by default.

Third Round.

G. A. Howell defeated Draper 6-3; 6-3.

Mansfield defeated Fleet 6-1; 6-3.

Fourth Round.

C. Y. Smith defeated T. M. Williams 7-5; 6-2.

MEN'S DOUBLES.

Mansfield and Smith defeated Porter and Matthews 6-3; 8-6.

Grant and Thornton defeated Orr and Ramspeck 6-1; 6-2.

MEN'S CONSOLATION SINGLES.

A. Clarke defeated H. M. Ashe, Jr., 6-1; 6-1.

W. C. Matthews defeated Nunnally 6-2; 6-2.

Martin defeated H. J. Hall by default.

Tom Wilson defeated Martin 6-2, 6-2.

There were not any matches pulled off in the mixed doubles, but play will be resumed in these this afternoon.

TODAY'S SCHEDULE.

Men's Singles—10 A. M.

C. Y. Smith v. Winner G. A. Howell-Hall match.

Play in the men's singles will be continued throughout the day, and the finals in singles will start at 4 o'clock.

The mixed doubles will also start during the afternoon.

Judge Kavanaugh Presents Attendance Trophy Today; Barons Play the Crackers

The Birmingham Barons of Carleton Molesworth will make their second appearance of the season at Ponce de Leon park this afternoon and for the remainder of the week.

There will be some new faces in the line-up this trip. Knisely, pronounced like it was spelled n-i-c-e-l-y, will be seen in the middle meadow place of Dan Senno who cavorted there on the last trip.

McDonald, a hard-hitting infielder, is cavorting on the hot corner, vice Carroll, the peppery outfielder, who is holding down the assistance roles, vice Herndon, the Atlanta boy, released to Albany in the Sally league.

The Barons and the Crackers have engaged in eleven games this season, four in Atlanta and seven at Rickwood field. On the local ball Clinton Fraught, the big right-hander, won the only game they copped from the Crackers. He won one of the games in Birmingham and Bill Foxen took the other.

Foxen v. Musser.

Foxen will probably be the pitcher that the Crackers will have to face in the opening battle this afternoon, with Major Paul Musser on the mound.

Paul Musser will, no doubt, be the selection of Manager Smith, with Harry Newman handling his slants.

With these batteries, the fans have every reason to look forward to a warm battle. Foxen would rather beat the Crackers than any other team he faces, by reason of the insinuation that he laid down when he was a member of the local team, an insinuation that the big southpaw hotly denies. But the winning idea is mutual. The Crackers do their durndest against Bill and the fans are always highly amused when he is driven to cover.

Today will be "trophy day" at the park. The handsome silver loving cup that the Crackers won by having the largest paid attendance the opening game of the season will be officially turned over to the locals this afternoon.

Kavanaugh Here.

Judge William M. Kavanaugh, president of the Southern league, will make the presentation. Manager Billy Smith will receive the trophy on behalf of the local club.

The presentation will be made just before the starting of the game, at the home plate, with the players gathered around the plate. The ceremonies will be simple and short, and the game will proceed immediately thereafter.

The Fifth Regiment band has been engaged by the local club for the day. They will parade the business section of the city just before the game and will furnish music throughout the pastime.

There is a little sidelight in this connection. Atlanta and Birmingham, the two foremost contestants for the opening day trophy, are having another little attendance battle all their own.

*The Barons gave the Crackers pen-*nant-raising day in Birmingham and 3,207 paid admissions were registered at the turnstiles, when the flag was unfurled to the breeze on the new steel flag pole at Rickwood field.

The Barons are given trophy day as a return compliment and the local fans are going to endeavor to beat their 3,207 figure this afternoon. Despite the apparent ease with which it looks like this mark can be bettered, it behooves local fandom to bestir themselves.

Three thousand, two hundred and seven paid admissions is an excellent week-day attendance in the Southern league, and to be frank and believed that they can beat this without any effort would be folly on the part of local fandom. It will take some effort. No ordinary week-day crowd can turn the trick.

Go Out Today.

If you are planning to see the Barons play in Crackers in one of the games of the present series, choose today to go. You will kill two birds with one stone. You will probably see the best game of the series, witness the cup presentation and slip another one over on Birmingham.

The probable batting order of the two teams is as follows:

LOCAL TENNIS STARS IN SOUTHERN MEET

Several of the Atlanta Players Are Planning to Go to New Orleans Monday.

By Hal Reynolds.

At the Southern tennis meet, which is to begin play the coming Monday in New Orleans, will be found quite a number of the local cracks who will try to duplicate last year's feat of bringing both the single and double championship to this city.

Among the players who will try their skill on the New Orleans courts will be found B. M. Grant, Dr. Nat Thornton, Charles A. Sisson, E. S. Mansfield and C. Y. Smith, who will be present to defend the title which he won on the East Lake courts last year.

The Southern meet for the past seven years has been held on the courts of the Athletic club, but it is to be regretted that the club did not capture the event this year, as the coming meet looms up as a much larger one than those which have been staged in former years.

The local team in doubles, composed of Smith and Thornton, which easily won the tourney last year, will not be together in this year's meet. Smith will enter the doubles with Mansfield as his partner.

This pair has been practicing a great deal together lately and it would not be a big surprise to them to capture the honors.

Thornton is not certain just who he will team with, but it is quite likely that he will team up with Grant, the present partner in the meet now going on at the Driving club.

Unless there are entries from the north and south next week McQuattie, of Mexico City, has at present the best and the chance of competing with Carlton Smith, the present champion, for this year's championship.

The courts on which the meet will be held are of clay, and this fact will no doubt prove a big drawback to the locals who have been practicing constantly on clay courts.

RECORDS WILL GO SATURDAY NIGHT

Faster Machines Are Imported for Local Meet—Three-Cornered Rivalry Exists. Prince to Nashville.

For the express purpose of putting a kink in "Cy" Richards' string of victories, Morty Graves, the "million-aire kid," of Los Angeles, has a fast motorcycle coming by express from Chicago. He isn't saying much about it, except that he has trailed long enough.

Graves is a man of means, heir to a keg of money, she rides for the delight of the thing. He is the richest man today who makes it a regular practice of risking his neck on the board tracks.

His machine here has not proved fast. So he has sent for another—an Excelsior. And be it known that these machines hold most of the world's records, including the mile in 26 seconds, or 100 miles an hour.

The races are to be held Saturday night and not Friday night as announced.

With Graves on his Excelsior, Jock McNeil on a Jap and the Indian 23 in good running order again, Richards must look to his laurels Saturday night. When these three meet the record for the local motordrom, which approaches 90 miles an hour, is sure to be bettered.

Jack Prince leaves after the races Saturday night for Nashville to start the erection of a motordrome there. If present plans go through he will have a southern circuit of five cities, with the best riders in the world making the circuit.

HARVARD BEATS YALE IN THE FOURTEENTH

Cambridge, Mass., June 18.—The baseball nines of Harvard and Yale battled for fourteen innings today in a Crimson victory, evening the series and making necessary a third game. The score was, Harvard 4, Yale 3. A closer contest has arely been fought between the two ancient rivals.

The Crimson tied the score at 2 to 2 in the ninth, and in the last half of the fourteenth, with one man out, Gannett lifted a high fly back of second base. Cornish dropped the ball and Gannett slid into second. Harlwick then sent the ball far beyond the left fielder.

It would have been good for a home run, ordinarily, but Gannett had crossed the plate with the deciding tally when Hardwick reached second. Finishing the circuit of the bases Hardwick ran into a wild ovation, and was carried from the field by exulting graduates.

Harvard took the lead in the first inning on Clark's home run, but Yale evened it up in the third, and took the lead with another tally in the fourth. Passes by Felton, the Harvard pitcher, figured in each score. Another run was rolled up by Yale in the eighth, but Harvard, which had also scored one in the fourth, tied up the game with a tally in the ninth. Harvard's rally in the fourteenth settled the game. The next contest will be played in Brooklyn Saturday.

SOX AND GIANTS CLAIM NOTRE DAME PITCHER

Chicago, June 18.—The national commission probably will be called upon to decide between the claims of the Chicago Americans and the New York Nationals for the services of Pitcher Lathrop, the Notre Dame star. "Bobby" Lynch, the Notre Dame coach, induced Lathrop to sign an agreement to join the Chicago team at the end of his college course in 1915, but "Dick" Kinsella, scout for New York, persuaded the collegian to sign with his club. The fact that Lynch was not an authorized agent of the Chicago team when he signed Lathrop is said to make the New York case strong.

Washington 10, Elberton 10.

Washington, Ga., June 18.—(Special.) Washington and Elberton tied up with 10 to 10 score today in the second game of the series of four. Game was called in the eighth inning on account of darkness. Reeves, Rich and Burden for visitors. Norman and Stone for Washington.

NEW CORDELE HEAD.

Heard Succeeds Bartholomew as Team's President.

Cordele, Ga., June 18.—(Special.)—At a meeting of the directors of the Cordele Baseball association last night O. M. Heard succeeded F. L. Bartholomew, who resigned as president. Business reasons of Mr. Bartholomew was the cause of the change. Mr. Heard states that though Cordele now has a strong team, showing up as one of the best in the league as it has, in order to hold its present ground above the other clubs, it will have to be further strengthened. This will be necessary, said Mr. Heard, for the reason that the clubs of the other five cities are all strengthening up with promises of playing better ball from now on.

College Hurler Honored.

Philadelphia, June 18.—A "great pitcher, a wise captain and a good student," is part of the inscription on a bronze tablet which was unveiled on Franklin field today in memory of Clarence B. Bayne, a member of the class of 1895 of the University of Pennsylvania and one of the greatest college pitchers of his time. The tablet, erected by his class, was unveiled in connection with "alumni day" exercises.

The tablet contains the full figure portrait of the young athlete, attired in a university baseball form. Bayne died several years ago.

Waller made his debut in the Sally and showed a lot of stuff. The second game was a farce. GUARANTEE ON LABEL NOT A SIGN OF PURITY

Successor to Dr. Wiley Explains Deficits of Food and Drugs Act.

Mobile, Ala., June 18.—The words "Guaranteed under the Food and Drugs Act" on a label are no assurance that contents of a package are pure, according to Dr. Carl L. Alsberg, chief of the bureau of chemistry, who spoke here today before the Association of American Food Chemists and Drug Officials. Dr. Alsberg was speaking of the limitations of the federal bureau under the federal pure food law, appealing for closer co-operation between federal and state authorities, and for uniformity of laws of states based on the national laws.

The food and drugs act, Dr. Alsberg asserted, "not only does not give the department of agriculture power to act in many vitally important matters, but actually prohibits its intervention in many things that call aloud for immediate correction. The people at large do not understand the limitations under which we act."

Dr. Alsberg explained that the word "guaranteed" on a can of soup or on a bottle of nerve tonic did not mean that the bureau of chemistry had seen and analyzed it, but that the manufacturers put on simply with the idea of protecting the jobber or retailer. All that the guarantee legend does, he continued, is to make it possible to prosecute the manufacturer if the goods were found to be in violation of the foods and drugs act.

"Construction and practical collaboration with all agencies interested in securing for the people a larger supply of better and purer foods and drugs," said Dr. Alsberg, "was the policy of the department in enforcing the law. Under this policy, he declared, we have in many and important cases which will establish far-reaching precedents."

The discussion that followed Dr. Alsberg's paper was led by J. S Abbott, pure food commissioner of Texas. Dr. H. P. Potter, the Connecticut commissioner, also talked on the part. Other papers read were "To What Extent Should the Functions of the State Departments Charged With the Enforcement of Dairy Food and Drugs Law Be Regarded as Educational?" "How May the Educational Function be Best Performed" by Dr. Lucius Brown, of Nashville, Tenn., the discussion being participated in by Dr. R. E. Stallings, of Georgia; Geo. L. Flanders, of New York and Commissioner Abbott.

"Should the Drug Stocks of Dispensing Chemists Be Inspected? If So What Ways and Means Might Be Legally Adopted to Carry Out Such Inspection?" by Dr. Charles Casnard, Jr., of Maryland, with discussion by Dr. R. B. Fitz Randolph, of New Jersey and Hon. Guy R. Frary, of South Dakota; "Milk Supply of Cities and Towns," by Hon. B. H. Rucker, Bureau of Animal Industry, United States department of agriculture, with discussion by Dr. H. F. Potter, of Connecticut, and Hon. John Newman, of Illinois.

The election of officers will be held Thursday.

JUMP FROM WHEEL AS CAR STRIKES IT SAVES OFFICER'S LIFE

Presence of mind and an athletic body saved Call Officer James Palmer, of the local police force, from a death beneath car wheels last night at 10 o'clock.

While going out Chapel avenue with Officer Shumate in answer to a hurry call, they neared Tatnall street on their motorcycles. At the corner of the two streets is a dense cluster of trees, which hides any approaching car on Tatnall street from sight.

Going at the rate of five miles an hour, Mr. Palmer started to cross Tatnall, when Howard and Angier Car No. 118 rushed toward Chapel street at what Mr. Palmer said was fully twenty miles an hour.

Seeing that a collision was inevitable, Mr. Palmer leaped from his motorcycle just as the front wheels of the car struck it. According to Mr. Palmer, the car went fully thirty yards before the motorman could stop it, dragging the motorcycle with it, and badly damaging it.

SAYS HIS WIFE FLIRTED WITH MEN ON STREETS

Claiming that his wife, a girl of 17 years, had got into the habit of lying in bed each morning until 10 o'clock and reading love stories until she finally came to believe in affinities and finally told him so and added that she had just married him to gain an affinity of her own, D. C. Curtis filed suit for divorce yesterday in superior court against Mrs. Katherine Curtis.

Curtis continues in his petition that his wife made it a habit to flirt with men on the streets and on cars and would not cease when he spoke with the man whom she named as her affinity. He declares that Mrs. Curtis refused to do any housework and that she had become Mrs. Curtis for the double purpose of taking herself off her father's hands and of spiting the "affinity."

LIFE IS MIGHTY SWEET TO ATTEMPTED SUICIDE

Life is mighty sweet right now to Benson D. Glymph, of 839 Seaboard avenue.

After successfully warding off the grim reaper, he says that life is worth living after all.

Monday night Glymph drank four glasses of rat poison, hoping to shuffle off the mortal coil without a tremor. But the doctors at the Grady hospital, aided by the stomach pump, pulled him back.

Fifteen years ago Glymph, who is a scenic painter by trade, fell from a 45-foot scaffolding at Washington, Ga., breaking his neck. But after nine weeks in the hospital he was at work again.

"I was just despondent over business matters," was his explanation of the rat poison episode.

LOWRY ARNOLD GIVES BARBECUE TO FRIENDS

Lowry Arnold, solicitor of the criminal court of Atlanta, has invited numbers of his friends among the court officials and also those not connected with the court to attend a barbecue at noon today at his place on Pace's Ferry road, on the banks of the Chattahoochee river.

About fifty or seventy-five have been invited to the feast, which promises to be a delightful one. A great number of the party will leave the Thrower building in special automobiles, and will return about 2:30 o'clock in the afternoon.

JUDGE G. G. WEEMS DIES; EX-ORDINARY OF HENRY

McDonough, Ga., June 18.—(Special.) Judge G. G. Weems, ex-ordinary of Henry county, died at his home here this morning at 10 o'clock afternoon. He was 75 years old in March, and up to September last, when affected with "internal cancer of the groin, was a remarkably well preserved, vigorous man of his age.

Judge Weems was one of Henry county's best and most prominent citizens. He was a veteran of the civil war, serving with distinction throughout the four years, being severely wounded in the famous battle at Gettysburg. He served as clerk of the superior court for a long term of years, as ordinary for a long term, and served a term of twelve years.

Two sons survive him—J. T. Weems, of this city, and Dr. G. E. Weems, of Apalachicola, Fla., and a host of friends throughout the county and state mourn his death.

Building Men. Get Convention.

A matter of considerable interest to real estate men is the announcement that the convention of the newly organized association of Atlanta building owners and managers have succeeded in securing the convention of the national organization for Atlanta in 1915.

These men have just returned from Cincinnati, where the convention has been in session. Full details of the fight for the convention are given elsewhere in this issue of The Constitution.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL NEWS OF DAY

COTTON UNSETTLED CLOSED AT DECLINE

Bearish View of Weather Conditions Caused Some Realizing.

New York, June 18.—The cotton market was rather less active today, and appeared to be somewhat unsettled, with prices easing off under realizing or scattered selling, which seemed to come partly from outside sources. The close was steady, but at a net decline of 4 to 14 points.

The opening was steady at a decline of 2 to 8 points, in response to lower cables, and prices soon showed net losses of from 10 to 11 points on the active months. Houses with Liverpool and continental connections were heavy sellers on the decline, while there was a good deal of scattered realizing on a bearish view of weather conditions, favorable crop accounts and large private acreage figures.

Offerings were well taken at the decline, owing to continued support from local bulls and covering by old shorts, however, and after the close of Liverpool had shut out arbitrage selling, prices rallied to within no point or two of last night's closing figures.

Reports of good rains in drouthy sections of the southwest inspired increased offerings later and the market eased off again, closing at approximately the lowest level of the day on the more active positions. A private decree just issued before the opening made the condition 87.9. Another report placed the probable area planted at 38,552,413 acres.

Cotton spot closed quiet; middling uplands, 12.40; do gulf, 12.65; sales, 14 bales.

New Orleans Cotton.

New Orleans, June 18.—The cotton market was quiet today and had a tendency to sag. Bull support was not in evidence at all, and trading ones went after their profits rather freely. Spot houses were also inclined to sell with the net decline for the day. On the other hand, while crop and weather news was encouraging, the bears were more inclined to multiply the situation than to operate. Fear of bullish manipulation in the summer months undoubtedly protected the new crop months from selling pressure.

The opening was steady at a decline of 5 to 7 points, on account of the high rains and the weather map was called favorable. It showed rains in Texas and the weather more unfavorable in the remainder of the belt. Temperatures were generally high and the forecast for the belt said that the crop was doing fairly well under them, although some sections claimed that rain would be beneficial. Interest in selling was caused by this especially after the forecast was posted. Private reports had it that the weather is right anywhere in the belt. A private bureau report on condition of the crop as high as 94.6 two weeks ago was about offset by a report which showing the area planted this spring to be 38,552,413 acres, 90 pound American mixed, or 300,000 a year ago.

In the early trading prices went 7 to 8 points down. Several recoverings and sags took place during the day at the highest the trading reached was 7 points over yesterday's close.

The market closed steady at the lowest of the day, a net loss of 9 to 11 points.

Coffee.

New York, June 18.—Coffee futures opened firm at an advance of 23 to 30 points in response to a generally upward movement in the European markets, unfavorable news advices from Brazil, and covering by shorts and regrets of bulls. Later there was plenty of offers for sale around the best prices and prices eased off in the late trading, under realizing and selling partly through houses with weaker connections. The close was steady.

BAD CROP REPORTS MADE WHEAT STRONG

Market Closed Steady, One-Eighth to One-Half Cent Higher—Corn Up.

Chicago, June 18.—Assertions that the wheat crop was going backward in Nebraska and South Dakota gave the market new strength today. Prices closed steady, 1-8 to 1-2c above last night. All leading staples still showed net gains—corn, 1-8 to 1-4@3-8c, oats 3-8@1-2c to 1-2@5-8c, provisions 2 1-2 to 15c.

Bulls were prompt to take action suggested by the absence of rain in South Dakota. They seemed to regard moisture elsewhere in the spring crop belt as having been discounted in full. Authorities were quoted that much of the planting in South Dakota had been done in fields which were improperly prepared and that the chances were against the damage there being repaired, the mercury at Huron, S. D., today being 99 in the shade. Nebraska advices were that high temperatures appeared to be shriveling the grain, and that near Grand Island the relapse with four or five days averaged 15 to 20 per cent. First receipts of new wheat at St. Louis and promise of harvesting next week in Illinois resulted in a decided setback to prices for that grain. Bullish sentiment again became uppermost after profit-taking by longs had ceased. Primary terminals reported arrivals as amounting to 649,000 bushels, against 1,919,000 a year ago. Export clearances of wheat and flour equalled 426,000 bushels.

Conflicting crop advices made the corn market indecisive. Many dispatches declared that the hot weather was favorable to growth. Other reports had it that large sections of the belt were very dry and that the crop was losing ground.

Speculators bought oats on account of continued damage in the larger producing sections.

In the provision pit, the effect of the grain bulge finally overcame the influence of a large run of hogs east. Packers temporarily pulled out of the market.

MINISTERS DEFEND PERSONAL HONESTY

David Lloyd-George and Sir Rufus Isaacs Arraigned in Commons for the Marconi Scandal.

London, June 18.—For the first time in many years British cabinet ministers were compelled today to defend their personal honesty before parliament. The attorney general, Sir Rufus Isaacs, and the chancellor of the exchequer, David Lloyd-George, accused their dealings in American Marconi shares on the floor of the house and the scene in the Marconi affair, which their enemies had attempted to magnify into a scandal rivaling the Panama debacle, was tense and dramatic.

The two ministers admitted that they had acted thoughtlessly and mistakenly, although without dishonest intention, and regretted their failure to divulge all the facts when they made their denials to the house last October by buying English Marconi shares.

Having finished their defense in deference to the tradition that the house should be left to protect the good name of the parliament. The liberals were threatening, if attacked unreasonably, to resurrect all the long buried shortcomings of the conservative ministers from almost forgotten graves.

Two more different types than the ministers practically before the bar of the house could not be imagined—Sir Isaac, with clear cut, scholarly and ascetic features, and the low-toned, earnest voice of the priest; David Lloyd-George, whom aristocrats look upon contemptuously as the "Welsh solicitor" and who always theatrical and emotional.

The attorney general's statement was like that of a judge. He emphasized his desire to take all responsibility for tempting the chancellor of the exchequer and Lord Murray, of Elibank, into the affair.

Lloyd-George Denounces Journalists.

Chancellor Lloyd-George could not refrain from denouncing the journalists who had spread rumors of corruption and said:

"Although the charge of corruption had been exploded, the deadly aftermath remains and the noxious fumes are poisoning the blood of the people now engaged in considering the minor charges.

"I am conscious of having done nothing to bring any stain on the honor of the ministers of the crown. If you will, I acted thoughtlessly, I acted carelessly. I acted mistakenly, but I acted innocently, openly, honestly. That is why I am content to place myself with confidence in the hands not merely of my political friends, but of all the members of this great assembly."

After the two ministers had retired Lord Robert Cecil, who had made the minority report of the investigating committee censuring the ministers, caused a small sensation by replying to chancellor Lloyd-George's charges. He tried to make the case against the ministers as bad as possible, saying:

"If I wished I could have made a really flaming report. I could have said a great many more things and I am quite ready to tell any member privately of some things I rejected because I did not consider that the evidence justified me in putting them before the country."

Defied Him to State Them.

Leo Chiozza Money, liberal, shouted: "You ought to state them."

Lord Robert Cecil replied:

"I do not think it fair to state in public things which there is not enough evidence to justify."

Stanley Owen Buckmaster, liberal, moved as an amendment that the house should express its reprobation of the false charges of corruption.

Sir Frederick Banbury, unionist, representing the city of London, declared that the minority report was missed.

The Right Rev. Hon. H. L. Samuel, postmaster general, whose name was linked with those of the attorney general and the chancellor of the exchequer in the newspaper stories, repeated his denials of any dealings in Marconi shares.

Interest is focused in the closing speeches of Premier Asquith and Sir Edward Grey, secretary for foreign affairs, tomorrow.

Labor's Support Is Pledged To Equal Suffrage Movement

Great enthusiasm was shown at the meeting of the Atlanta Equal Suffrage association yesterday afternoon in Carnegie library. Labor leaders, lawyers, ministers and newspaper men pledged support to the Georgia suffragists, and the men outnumbered the women on the speakers' program. Mrs. A. R. Woodall presided.

President Marks, of the Georgia Federation of Labor, pledged the support of that body to the cause of woman suffrage, inviting the suffragists to attend the labor meetings and present their cause. Louis P. Marquardt, chairman of the organization committee of the Atlanta Federation, delivered a stirring address.

Labor Backs Woman's Rights.

"Labor is ready to help the women in the fight for equal suffrage. Your organization, as ours, stands for the same kind of measures. Our chief plastic is that we have scattered our energies in the past, urging the passage of too many good bills, instead of concentrating upon the best one."

Prolonged applause greeted his declaration for a "real child labor law," declaring the present one is nowhere near effective enough for any one who appreciates the welfare of children. Compulsory education and better school books were also urged by labor representatives, and the employers' liability bill was heartily indorsed.

J. L. Gillett advanced reasons why all men should favor equal suffrage.

Mrs. Mary L. McLendon, president of the Georgia branch of the National Equal Suffrage association, was a leading figure at the suffrage meeting, declaring the present era is one where fear of battle enough for any one who appreciates the welfare of children. Compulsory education and better school books were also urged by labor representatives, and the employers' liability bill was heartily indorsed.

"For this opportunity to exploit our official news and the chance it gives us to agitate, educate and organize the public for woman suffrage we are largely indebted to Clark Howell and Jama Dooly," said Mrs. McLendon.

Mrs. Margaret McWhorter traced the progress of California since women have been given the ballot. "Before the day of woman suffrage in California that state was steeped in graft and corruption," she said. "It was the custom, when adverse legislation was contemplated, to give the interests a hearing behind closed doors. After the suffrage victory, breaking all precedent, the governor called in the newspaper men and ordered a public hearing, and who attended? Not one of the grafter-seeking corporations were represented, but there was a valiant band of women voters, who saw to it that the public rights were conserved.

"Why, today California has a woman's legislature which has done a noble work. They have raised the age of consent from 16 to 21 years, while here in the Empire State of the South it is 10.

"Before a women could vote in California white slavery was worse in San Francisco than in Chicago, and it was a law women who planned a stringent white slave law. As soon as women get the right to vote in Georgia, and I hope you will have elected the right legislature I will take an active hand in the fight for bills upon which I have been working for many years."

Attorney Max Grossman, recently returned to Atlanta from Illinois, where suffrage has just been granted women by referendum, outlined the campaign which was fought in Illinois and the co-operation which organized labor gave the women in their fight for the ballot, stressing, as a good omen, that the fight was evidently to be fought along the same lines here. He concluded his address with a tribute to the leadership of Mrs. Mary L. McLendon, one of the pioneer suffrage workers in the United States.

The state convention will meet at the capitol on July 9-10.

AT THE THEATERS.

"The Duke of Durham."

(At the Bijou.)

Large audiences witnessed the three performances of "The Duke of Durham" yesterday at the Bijou and the popularity of musical comedy tabloid is an assured fact, and as long as the Bijou continues to offer such clever shows at bargain prices there will be no falling off in the splendid clientelle of this house.

During the week matinees will be given every afternoon at 3 o'clock and the night performances will begin at 7:30 and 9.

Keith Vaudeville.

(At the Forsyth.)

Again on Wednesday night the Forsyth was packed, simply because the Keith vaudeville bill at the busy theater this week is one of the most delightful combinations of real variety that has been seen in Atlanta. Bud Fisher's sketching of "Mutt and Jeff" is, of course, a feature and there is all kinds of interest in watching just how the famous cartoonist makes the characters that are so well known all over the world. Pauline Welch has secured a perfect personal hit with a delightful line of songs and a charming personality.

Photo Drama.

(At the Grand.)

History, romance and tragedy are blended into one awe inspiring and thrilling ensemble in George Kleine's photo drama reproduction of Henry Sienkiewicz' justly celebrated story, "Quo Vadis," which is being presented at the Grand, matinee and night, daily. This is the most marvelous achievement in photo drama and has created a sensation at the Astor theater in New York city and at Chicago, Philadelphia and Baltimore, where the pictures are being presented to enormous crowds at every performance. For scope, magnitude, extravagant splendor and life-reality, these pictures have never been equaled and they carry with them an appeal to every community.

COTTON SEED SUPPLY ALLOTTED BY "TRUST"

Guthrie, Okla., June 18.—O. Brown, formerly a bookkeeper in the employ of the W. H. Coyle company, whose president, W. H. Coyle, is on trial here charged with forming a cotton "pool," testified today that it was true that the cotton raising districts of this section of Oklahoma had been divided into territories for the purpose of controlling the cotton seed supply and that a certain tonnage of seed was apportioned to oil mills in Tennessee, Arkansas, Missouri and Illinois to keep them out of this territory. This was accomplished, said Brown, through the operations of the "Sons of Plato," as the alleged "trust" at its formation was known, and of the New States Brokerage company. Brown testified that the brokerage company was organized to continue the work of the "Sons."

Letters purporting to have passed between members of the brokerage company were read by Attorney General West. One, signed by Coyle, read:

"Always remember the big stick. Well put in a little wedge this year and drive it in next year."

AT BLUE-GRAY REUNION TAFT WILL PRESIDE

Gettysburg, Pa., June 18.—It was semi-officially announced today that former President Taft would preside over the great gathering of confederate and union veterans at the Gettysburg celebration. He is expected to deliver the principal oration July 4. It was planned to have President Wilson preside, but it was announced a few days ago that he probably would not attend.

GIVE MONEY FOR FAMILY AT HUSBAND'S FUNERAL

Dave Yancey, Officer Who Died at Duty's Post, Now Rests in Forest Park Cemetery.

The body of Dave Yancey, special court deputy, was laid to rest yesterday afternoon in Forest Park cemetery before a crowd of friends and neighbors who numbered over 300. His wife and the six young children, the heart of their breadwinner by the work of a negro desperado who hacked the deputy to death as he was trying to arrest him for theft, were carried to the grave in automobiles furnished by friends of the dead man.

The funeral was preached at Lakewood Heights Baptist church by Rev. J. P. McConnell, of Grayson, Ga., a Baptist preacher and former member of the legislature from Gwinnett county, where Yancey was reared.

Even as the services were going on donations to the fund which is now over $800 were being made. The plan is to purchase for the widow and children the little home on Jonesboro road and give them an additional sum with which to start out to become self-supporting. The money now due on the home is $900 without interest and it is believed that the owner, a neighbor, will not take any interest, but will content himself with only the principal. Those in charge of the matter, acting with a deputy sheriff early in the afternoon and declared that under no circumstances would he accept interest beyond the present time.

Around the grave $5.50 was subscribed by neighbors who silently turned the money over to Deputy Sheriff J. H. Owen. These were: C. F. Moody, H. Stanley, W. G. Cooper, W. G. Gilly and J. A. Thompson, $1 each, and B. R. Darnell, $0 cents.

VICTOR H. OLMSTEAD SUSPENDED BY HOUSTON

Charged Statistics Bureau of Agriculture Department Has Been Badly Conducted.

Washington, June 18.—Victor H. Olmstead, chief of the bureau of statistics of the department of agriculture, was suspended today by Secretary Houston pending an inquiry into charges of lack of discipline and poor administration in the bureau.

It was officially stated that there was no suspicion of leaks in crop reports similar to the famous "cotton leak" a few years ago which resulted in a complete overhauling of the office. Numerous complaints of favoritism, resulting in disaffection, confusion and inability to maintain proper discipline led to the charges, it was said.

The solicitor of the department already has started an investigation and to avoid any suggestion of collusion, Secretary Houston decided it would be better for Mr. Olmstead to be out of the office during the inquiry.

The investigation is likely to result. It was suggested by an official in the transfer of the entire bureau of statistics to the census bureau.

Some changes already had been made as a result of the complaints which led to today's action, but these, it was said, had only accentuated the general dissatisfaction at the chief's administrative methods.

15,000 MEN TO STRIKE IN THE COAL FIELDS

Another Great Labor Disturbance to Begin in West Virginia.

Charleston, W. Va., June 18.—A general strike of miners in the New River coal field, District No. 29, United Mine Workers of America, will be called next week, according to an announcement tonight of Thomas Haggerty, member of the International Miners' Board. Fifteen thousand men are employed in the New River field.

The decision to call a general strike was reached today at Beckley, W. Va. Mr. Haggerty attended the meeting and returned here tonight.

Whether 15,000 miners will be idle depends, it is said, upon what concessions may be granted by the operators. It is believed that some of the operators within the next few days will grant terms agreeable to their employees. In all such instances, it is intimated, such operators will be protected when the strike comes. The miners, it is said, are restless and on the verge of organizing a walk-out. It is rumored the New River operators are in conference late tonight.

A strike in the New River field is expected to result in a renewal of the strike at Cabin Creek and Paint Creeks, where an attempt was made at meetings of miners to call a strike last Sunday.
